Secretary Brosius Resigns, State Ag Community Shocked

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Tom Ridge this week requested and received the resignation of state Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius, according to a five-paragraph news release made Wednesday.

Secretary Brosius had no public comment on the action, and none would be forthcoming, according to his press secretary Sally Bair.

According to the governor's spokesman, Tim Reeves, Secretary Brosius is to serve until May 31 and is expected to continue to fulfill the commitments of his schedule until then, including leading a trade mission to Mexico in mid-May.

State legislators and agriculutral lobbyists and state employees expressed shock upon learning of the resignation requested by Gov. Ridge, since all contacted were under the assumption that Secretary Brosius was doing an excellent job in the position.

Several legislators said that of all of Gov. Ridge's political appointees, that the last one they would suspect of being considered for being asked to leave would have been Secretary Brosius.

Those who remember other resignations said that this one was such a shock because there were no warning signs or indications that anything was wrong — On March 24, Brosius had sent a progress report to legislators with a cover letter that expressed gratitude for the successes and hope for continuing support.

"The past two years have brought many successes to Pennsylvania's agricultural community. With the strong leadership of the Ridge Administration and support from the members of the General Assembly, we have made important strides in working together to keep our agriculture industry strong and competitive," Brosius stated in the cover letter.

Legislators said they considered Brosius to be an excellent leader for the department, highly qualified and considered to have unquestioned integrity, principal and ethics, in addition to serving personally as an example of successful agricultural entreprenuerialship and personal growth.

They said he was one who already understood the issues well, could make suggestions and promote effective legislation and changes to benefit agriculture, and one who wasn't afraid to tackle even controversial problems, such as the state's Dog Law, which was recently recodified, updated, and

State Legislators Say They Don't Understand

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Several state legislators familiar with agriculture and state Secretary Charles Brosius said they don't understand Gov. Tom Ridge's request for Brosius' resignation.

Brosius, of Chester County, was asked for and tendered his resignation this week, ending his term as head of the Pa. Department of Agriculture May 31.

State Rep. Arthur Hershey, Cochranville, had nominated Brosius to the position and said he was disappointed with the governor's decision.

"We were shocked," Hershey said. "Here is a man who has raised the visibility of the department considerably, working with the governor and Senate to get funding of New Bolton (University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine) back up to being comfortable.

"Research at Penn State increased through his leadership. The (Penn State University Cooperative) Extension budget was increased a major percentage," Hershey said, adding the past administrations had allowed the extension service to atrophy.

"There have just been many, many plusses (with Charles Brosius as secretary)," he said.

Hershey noted that Brosius took over the management of the state's new diagnostic laboratory, giving credit to getting it started to former Ag Secretary Boyd Wolff, but taking it further to get it completed and staffed.

Brosius also successfully tackled nutrient management responsibilities, serving as chairman of the State Conservation Commission, tackling Dog Law,

'Panorama' Of Music At Poultry's Big Fundraiser

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — They call her voice "triumphant," often "electrifying," many times "captivating," providing listeners a true "panorama" of music.

The words describe the music of Sandi Patty, who will entertain next Wednesday at the annual Pennsylvania Poultry Federation fundraising banquet.

Those same words can also describe the night every year that is set aside to celebrate accomplishments of the industry and to share friendship and good times.

Next Wednesday evening, April 16, nearly 1,500 producers and agri-industry representatives will celebrate the accomplishments of the state's poultry industry at the Hershey Convention Center.

Sandi Patty brings to the stage a "remarkably flexible and far-

Spring brings out the warm, fuzzy feelings in all true agriculturalists. Newborn lambs, toddlers, and the yellow glow of forsythia in full bloom bring hope for another good growing season and the future of generations to come. Maybe young life seems more sacred to those of us who have seen more than 60 springs come and go. But regardless of your age, it's hard not to enjoy the combination of subjects in this week's cover photo.

The toddlers are Christy (age 1) and Katie (age 5) Umberger, daughters of Don and Cindy Umberger, Palmyra, Lebanon County. The three-day-old quad lambs belong to a registered Dorset at Ovine Ally Farms, located north of Palmyra and owned by Ken and Ann Staver. The Stavers have been breeding Dorsets since 1951, and this is the first set of quads they have ever had. This mother ewe has been quite busy, too. This birth of four lambs follows her triplets that were born last September.

According to the latest statistical summary from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, there are 107,000 sheep and lambs on Pennsylvania farms. Commonwealth flocks include 92,000 breeding sheep and lambs and 15,000 market sheep and lambs. Five-hundred sixty-thousand pounds of wool was shorn from 81,000 sheep. The gross income from sheep production was $5.2 million, and Pennsylvania ranked 17th in the United States for sheep and lamb inventory as of January 1, 1996. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds remained good and seller offerings were generally no more than adequate. Live supplies were moderate; weights were in a range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 54 to 68 cents. Trade sentiment remained firm. In the parts complex, boneless skinless breasts were fully adequate to ample and were generally slow in clearing. National Egg Market

APRIL 9, 1997

Prices were unchanged to lower in the Northeast, Midwest, and Southeast, and unchanged elsewhere. The market tone remained steady to weak. Demand was mixed across the full range and was mostly light to moderate. Supplies were adequate to ample with large the most available. Breaking stock supplies were at least adequate for the moderate demand, and many breakers awaited further shell egg price reductions. Offerings of light type fowl were generally adequate.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
APRIL 9, 1997

Grain and soybean bids finished mixed at today's close. Traders continue to be concerned over the return of winter but some support was noted in bids. Wheat 1 to 3 cents lower. Corn mixed. Sorghum 1 to 4 cents lower. Soybeans mixed. Cold temperatures overnight in wheat growing areas across the US but damages have not been reported as yet. A few overnight export orders were on the books, offering slight support to bids. Corn and soybean bids took no drastic moves up or down but continued lack of foreign sales offered pressure. The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

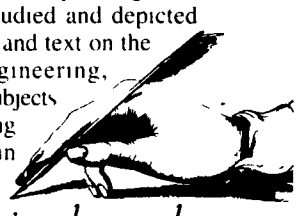
APRIL 14-20, 1997

TAX DAY, APRIL 15.

NOTABLE NOTEBOOKS

Forget your taxes and celebrate the birthday of Leonardo daVinci, born on April 15, 1452. Besides the Mona Lisa and other major works of art, daVinci left some of the most prolific literary notebooks of any of our great genius minds There were notebooks on human anatomy, the science of painting, architecture, and mechanics He also studied and depicted his knowledge in drawings and text on the subjects of hydraulic engineering, botany, geology, and other subjects The key to all this, according to Leonardo, was simply in "knowing how to see "



As a well-spent day brings happy sleep, so life well used brings happy death.

– Leonardo daVinci

TIP OF THE WEEK

If lightning is near, drop your golf clubs and get off the course.

SAVORY MUSTARD SOLE

6 fillets of sole
1/4 cup butter, melted
juice of 1 lemon
5 shallots, peeled and finely chopped
1/2 cup dry white wine
7/8 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons dijon-style mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
6 scallions, sliced, including green parts

Arrange fish fillets full-length in baking dish Combine butter and lemon juice and pour over fish Place shallots and wine in a saucepan and boil gently until wine has evaporated Mix together cream, mustard, salt, and pepper and add to shallots Bring to a boil and remove from heat Cool, pour over fish Sprinkle with scallions Bake at 425° for 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Better April showers than the breadth of the ocean in gold.

– Irish proverb

Rain from the south prevents a drouth, but rain from the west is always best.

If the Sun in red should set, the next day surely will be wet; if the Sun should set in grey, the next will be a rainy day.

OPINION

Spilled Producer Income

The recent announcement that the Chicago Mercantile Exchange will open a new cash market for cheese on May 2, 1997, is recognition that dairy farmers' complaints are being heard. But, we should not be hoodwinked into believing that simply moving the cash market from Green Bay to Chicago will strengthen producer milk prices. The emphasis must remain on developing a new pricing system that provides dairy farmers with a fair return on their investment and labor.

Substituting the new Chicago cash market for the Green Bay market in calculating dairy prices would be a mistake that could be costly for producers as well as consumers. The new market is untested. And, at least initially, the new market is likely to be as thinly-traded as the Green Bay market, and therefore, subject to market manipulation. Further, trading in Chicago may or may not be regulated by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, as CFTC officials say that their ability to regulate cheese trades will depend on how the contract is written. It is expected that cheese trading on the new exchange will take place only once a week. Sound familiar?

These factors, and the ease with which the National Cheese Exchange in Green Bay, Wis., announced its plan to close once the Chicago market begins trading cheese, should cause dairy producers to ponder whether or not price data from Chicago trading will be any fairer than it has been from the Green Bay exchange.

The basic formula price for milk need not be based on the new cheese market, particularly since other viable options exist. Since mid-February, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has been collecting cheddar cheese price data from processing plants across the nation.

Delegates to National Farmers Union's 95th anniversary convention in March 1997 voted to support use of USDA's wholesale price data for cheese, combined with consumer price data and production cost information, to calculate the basic formula price for milk. Commodity trading is known for its extreme price swings, while stability is beneficial to both producers and consumers.

Once developed and actively traded, the cash market for cheese could become a useful tool for milk marketing. In the meantime, however, it is important to keep this untested, thinly-traded and possibly unregulated market from setting producer prices. Otherwise, the crying will be over spilled producer income.

Now Is The Time

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Monitor Heifer Program

If you are raising dairy replacement heifers, some of your goals should be to raise genetically superior heifers, have them ready to calve at 22 to 24 months of age, and do it economically, said Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County extension dairy agent.

Growth rates are a good indicator of how well you are raising your heifers. Compare their growth rates with those that are suggested on the more current growth charts. Measure the growth rates of heifers similar to the way you measure the growth rate of children.

From the growth charts, paint height lines on walls or posts along walkways and in various pens for various age groups of heifers. As different aged heifers walk by, stand opposite to these painted lines and compare their height at the withers to what is expected. When eyeballing their heights and comparing it to the painted lines, be sure heifers are standing on a solid, level surface and you are eyeballing them from the same level as their backs.

If you spot "poor doers," move them back to a younger age group. If they do not improve, consider culling them. Chances are they will also be "poor doers" as cows.

To Control Heifer Costs

Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County extension dairy agent, said the total cost of raising heifers to a calving age of 24 months is about $1,200. If they replace cows that have been culled for $300, the net cost of repopulating a stall is $900.

If the cows stay in the lactating herd about three years, the net cost of replacements per cow per year is $300. That amounts to $1.50 per hundredweight of milk for a 20,000-pound producer.

To reduce the cost of replacements:

- Reducing calving age from 28 months to 24 months reduces the number of heifers needed by 15 percent. It also costs less to calve heifers at a younger age. That means lactating heifers can recover their rearing costs in about 1.5 years instead of 2 years.
- Cull fewer cows. When cow turnover rates drop from 35 percent to 25 percent, about 30 percent fewer heifers are needed.
- With today's good genetics and new technology, it may be profitable to extend calving intervals. As calving intervals increase from 12.5 months to 15 months, 20 percent fewer heifers are needed.

To Improve Herbicide Effectiveness

According to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent, the effectiveness of a weed control program may be improved by following five easy steps.

First, match the control program including the herbicide to the weed problems in the field.

Second, plant and apply preemergence herbicides as soon as possible after the last tillage operation. Many herbicides are only effective on germinating seeds and will not control weeds after they have germinated.

Third, use a rotary hoe or spike tooth harrow to incorporate herbicides if rain is not received within 5 to 7 days.

Fourth, whenever possible, take advantage of cultivation to control escape weeds.

Finally, develop realistic goals for the weed control program. Crops can tolerate some weeds with little or no impact on yields. However, watch for escape weeds which could become problems in the future.

POOR, BUT RICH

April 13, 1997

Background Scripture:
Revelation 2:8-17

Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 1:8-13

I don't know where I first heard this quotation, but it does seem to get around: "I've been poor and I've been rich and 'rich' is definitely better."

It's hard to quarrel with that point of view, but, of course, it all depends upon what you mean by both 'poor' and 'rich.' Just as one can be 'lonely' in a 'crowd,' so it is possible to be 'poverty-stricken' in the midst of our 'wealth' or even 'rich' in the grips of 'poverty.' This certainly is what is behind the letter of Revelation to the church at Smyrna: "I know your tribulation and your poverty (but you are rich) ..."! (2:9).

Just as we think of a poor man as one who lacks wealth, Saint Francis of Assisi thought of a rich man as one who lacked grace of poverty. That doesn't mean that I am going to rush right out and make myself poor so I can be rich in grace, but I will take seriously all the manifold riches God has bestowed upon me and continues to bestow.

ARE YOU RICH?

Normally, if asked whether I am 'rich,' I don't hesitate to answer 'No.' But as John's letter to Smyrna tells the Christians there that they are truly 'rich,' so, I'm sure, he must be saying that very same thing to each of us. Actually, when I get rid of the dollar sign, I can say without reservation or equivocation, "I am rich." So, I suspect, are you.

'Rich' and 'poor' are really relative terms. Billy Rose once wrote in his newspaper column of a meeting that we held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago in 1923 for seven of the most powerful financial leaders in the world. Together, they controlled more wealth than what was in the U.S. Treasury at the time. They were: Arthur Cutten, greatest wheat speculator in the world; Richard Whitney, President of the New York Wheat Exchange; Albert Fall, a member of the President's Cabinet; Jesse Livermore, the leading 'bear' on Wall Streat; Leon Fraser, president of the Bank of International Settlement; Ivan Krueger, head of the world's largest monopoly; and Charles Schwab, president of the world's largest steel company.

But by 25 years later Curren had died abroad, insolvent; Schwab lived on borrowed money for the last five years of his life; Fraser, Livermore, and Krueger committed suicide; Whitney served a term in Sing Sing, and Fall was released from prison so that he might die at home. These men were 'rich' but truly 'poor.'

CONSCIOUSNESS

Even apart from the IRS' 1040 income tax form, none of us likes to admit just how 'rich' — financially or otherwise — we are. A friend of mine once told me, "I grew up poor, but I didn't know it. So I guess I wasn't." Both poverty and affluence require a degree of consciousness. No matter what our bank balances might indicate, most of us — perhaps all — are far richer than we realize. And one of the things God wants us to do is realize just how richly he has blessed us.

Jan Struther wrote an inspiring novel, Mrs. Miniver, during World War II. When she died some years ago, she left behind this poem:

One day my life will end; and lest
Some whim should prompt you to review it,
Let her who knew the subject best
Tell you the shortest way to do it:
Then say: "Here lies one doubly blest."
Say: "She was happy." Say: "She knew it."
'Poverty?' 'Wealth?' It's all in the 'knowing.'

(In October, Rev. & Mrs. Althouse will lead a 14-day tour to Turkey to trace the footsteps of Paul and John. For information, write: 4412 Shenandoah Ave., Dallas, TX 75205.)

Getting rid of those annoying hang-ups in your operation is easier than ever.

The new SURGE® One Touch™ makes stanchion milking as easy as this. A lightweight, gun-grip design integrates the milk line and pulsation connections into one simple process. Yet it's built incredibly tough to handle the real world demands of the dairy barn.

Most importantly, One Touch brings high-tech automation to stanchion operators with two optional management modules.

The TIMEKEEPER™ II module signals you when the cow finishes milking and displays how long she took to milk...promoting fast, consistent milking that leads to better udder health.

The Milk Yield Module measures individual cow production and milking time, allowing instant analysis of each cow's performance.

By putting today's production information at your fingertips, the SURGE One Touch lets you capture your cow's performance in the palm of your hand.

Video Blazes A Trail For Groundwater Protection

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Should you be concerned about the quality of your groundwater? How can you keep your well or your community's water supply safe from contamination? A new video from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences can help you answer these questions.

"When groundwater contamination strikes, today's and tomorrow's users both suffer," says Kelli Martin, senior research technologist in the agricultural and biological engineering department. "Communities need to protect groundwater and keep our water supplies safe."

"Groundwater Protection: Blazing a Healthy Trail" is the second educational video in a four-video series about protecting our valuable water resources. Using creative video techniques and a Western-style theme, this video communicates three technical trail markers that protect groundwater.

"It covers physiographic regions and their aquifers, identifying land uses and contaminant flow paths that impact aquifers, and how to develop a community groundwater protection action group," says Martin, who wrote the video's script.

This video is aimed at water supply officials, public educators, cooperative extension personnel, municipal planning officials, school children and older students, and community special interest groups.

Technical advisers for the project included Paul Robillard, associate professor of agricultural engineering; William Sharpe, professor of forest hydrology; and Charles Abdalla, associate professor of agricultural economics and co-director of the Pennsylvania Groundwater Policy Education Project.

"The Case of the Mysterious Groundwater," the first video in the series, is a 16-minute Sherlock Holmes spoof. "It explores the mysteries of our hidden groundwater supplies and puts groundwater myths 'in the slammer,'" Martin says.

The third video, "Groundwater Protection Action Groups: A Roadtrip to Success," takes a road trip with the fictional Riley family as they learn four ways to make a groundwater protection action group successful.

The final video in the series, "Private Well Construction in Pennsylvania: Setting the Standard," explores why proper well construction standards are essential to safeguarding private water supplies.

The video series is funded by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering. Production services were provided by Shelow-Porterfield Productions of Boalsburg.

In addition to Maryland and Virginia's home office and marketing division in Reston, Va., the association has three other divisions to serve members. Marva Maid, the cooperative's fluid processing arm in Newport News, Va., is one of the leading market share holders in the growing Tidewater region of Virginia. The cooperative's milk is sold under the Marva Maid name and as private label product.

Marva Maid, built by Maryland and Virginia in 1962, recently expanded cold storage capacity on its original site and annexed an adjacent warehouse to keep up with product demand.

Maryland and Virginia's Manufacturing Division, commonly called "Laurel," produces butter, nonfat dry milk, and condensed milk for customers across the country and around the world. The plant, located in Laurel, Md., is one of a handful of facilities across the United States that makes and packages butter for Land O'Lakes. Nonfat milk solids and condensed milk are processed at Laurel and end up as ingredients in such foods as bread, baby formula, candy, and ice cream.

The manufacturing division has been a part of Maryland and Virginia since 1955. As well as providing value-added dollars for Maryland and Virginia members, the division acts as a balancing plant for many milk processors in the region.

The associations' equipment division is operated as a service for members. Members can purchase farm and dairy items from the equipment warehouse in Frederick, Md., or from a route truck that visits member farms periodically. Division savings are allocated to members at year end as a percentage of their total purchases.

In addition to providing an avenue for collective marketing for its members, Maryland and Virginia also joins with other milk marketing cooperatives in various federations and associations for marketing, promotional and political strength.

In addition to financial reports, members also applauded their peers who celebrated 50 to 75 year anniversaries with the association. Families celebrating 75 years were Mehrle H. and Thelma H. Ramsburg, Brookfield Farms, Thurmont, Md.; Martz Farm, Frederick, Md.; and Rudell Beall and Sons, Inc., Clarksburg, Md.

Farms with 50 year membership were Dennis and Audrey Bowman and Steve and Beth Bowman, Big Spring Farm, Inc., Union Bridge, Md.; Harold J., Martha F. and Robert H. Burrier, Frederick, Md.; Maynard, Jane, Donald and Donna Grossnickle, Myersville, Md.; Leonard Grove Dairy, Midland, Va.; W.E. Henshaw, Wilbob Farms, Inc., Kearneysville, W.V.; Jones Dairy Farm, Aroda, Va.; David and Elizabeth Small and Marty and Rhonda Miller, Shenandoah Junction, W.V.; and Charles, Irene, Donald, Gloria, Mark and Angie Savage, Mount Airy, Md.

PRO-LIX LIQUID-FEED

With the High Costs of Dry Feeds... Look to Liquids... LOOK to PRO-LIX...

In the dairy business, income over feed cost is the name of the game. Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements offer dairymen the means to maximize this value while getting the most from their cow's natural abilities.

Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements are concentrated sources of just what ordinary feeds lack: protein, energy, vitamins, minerals -- everything animals need for economical milk production and growth.

For replacement heifers, Pro-Lix means ... maturity and assurance that they'll get to the milking herd on time. If you trust your heifers to forage alone, they might not make it!

For lactating ... of Pro-Lix means plenty of ... available for milk production and growth.

Finally, for dry cows, Pro-Lix not only helps maintain their health during the dry period it prepares them for the next lactation. The Ca:P ration in Pro-Lix helps control milk fever, while the Vitamin E and selenium aids in clean-up after the birth of a calf.

Best of all, Pro-Lix works with all types of pasture grass or forage, as a free-choice supplement, a top-dressing, or a ration mix.

The payoff is healthier animals and economical production, all year round!

reaching vocal range that includes heart-stirring classics, lovable Disney melodies, nostalgic big band and Broadway numbers, and, of course, gospel and pop gospel music," according to promotional materials. She has earned five Grammy awards, 34 Dove awards, three platinum, and five gold albums.

According to William Trace, Federation chairman, "Sandi Patty's captivating voice and charming stage presence made her the immediate choice from a broad range of entertainment selections available. It promises to be a memorable evening."

According to John Hoffman, the Federation's executive director, as of Tuesday afternoon this week about 1,215 tickets had been sold to the single largest farm industry banquet. Last year about 1,500 people attended the banquet. Tickets, at $150 each, are still available.

Sandi Patty

The fundraising banquet provides 58 percent of the entire Federation operating budget for the year. The remaining percentage is made up in membership dues and Farm Show Booth sales.

But this year was a banner year for the Federation's fundraising efforts. Farm Show profits were "the biggest they've ever been," said Hoffman. Sales from food at the Farm Show booth totalled $70,000 with a net profit of $30,000 — which makes for some good news in light of some troubling events early this year, regarding avian influenza (A.I.) and other worries.

The money raised at the banquet is used to fund the highly successful and nationally influential Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP). About 80 percent of the state's egg producers are enrolled in PEQAP, totalling 275 producers, according to Hoffman, which is becoming a national standard for egg quality assurance to egg consumers.

"The association is becoming more involved in actually promoting PEQAP," Hoffman said. "We have the program far enough along now to start promoting it."

The promotion will begin in the next several weeks with radio spots telling consumers to look for the PEQAP Quality Seal on cartons of eggs.

Producers pay a $500 license fee to use the seal. The seal can be placed on egg cartons or cases. The radio program, with a matching grant of $15,000 from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, costs a total of $30,000. The radio ad will run the next 2-4 weeks on markets in the Philadelphia, Lancaster, Harrisburg, Reading, Allentown, York, and Wilkes-Barre/Scranton areas, according to Hoffman, totalling about 6.8 million listeners.

The funds are also used for operating expenses for the Poultry Health Committee, which provides information on poultry meat issues but also handles issues regarding eggs. Hoffman also noted the success of the insurance program offered by the Federation and the dissemination of news through the monthly newsletter, Poultry Post.

While some commodity groups spend a great deal of time on legislative promotional activities, the Federation is busy on both levels — not only with lobbying efforts but with actual quality assurance implementation and poultry health monitoring.

The Federation provides a number of other important benefits for members, including:

• Food safety. The Federation is the only state agricultural organization to employ a veterinarian full time to manage food safety programs for producers and processors.

• Poultry health leadership. The Poultry Health Committee continuously monitors flock health and avian influenza surveillance data to maintain effective control and eradication programs, including the use of the Federation indemnity fund.

• Nutrient management. The Federation constantly participated in the development of nutrient management legislation and regulations to ensure effective but fair requirements for poultry and egg producers.

• Communication. The Federation keeps the industry informed through the Poultry Post newsletter. Also, the Federation sponsors the Northeast Poultry Show, held at the Lancaster Host Convention Center; the Poultry Progress Day, held at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center; and other meetings.

• Industry savings and protection. The worker's compensation program and medical insurance programs have saved the industry millions of dollars every year. Also, the Federation is involved in government relations, youth programs, turkey and broiler checkoff funds, scholarships, and other efforts.

The Federation operates two checkoff programs, for broilers and turkeys. These volunteer programs fund industry research. The Federation also provides five $1,000 scholarships to Penn State students.

By the way — Hoffman calls entertainer Sandi Patty's voice "so beautiful that you got to hear it to believe it."

The social hour begins at 5:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7 p.m. at the Hershey Convention Center along Rt. 322 in Hershey.

Tickets are $150 each and may be ordered by writing or calling the Pa. Poultry Federation at 500 N. Progress Ave., Harrisburg, PA 17109, (717) 652-7530 or fax (717) 652-0230.

Farm Preservation Begins 7th Year

LAKEWOOD (Wayne Co.) — Thirteen farms, totaling 2,260 acres, are now under conservation easement in Wayne County.

This land can only be used for agricultural purposes, as development rights have been relinquished.

Applications for 1997 Conservation Easement purchase are available from the Penn State extension office at the Wayne County Courthouse.

To be eligible, a farm must produce at least $25,000 of agricultural income per year, have at least 50 percent of its soils in Class I, II, III, or IV, and 50 percent of its land in the production of grain, hay, or open pasture. The farm must also have a conservation plan in use.

We'll be there for poultry growers... generation after generation.

At Farm Credit, we know poultry operations. As a cooperative owned by the people who use us, Farm Credit has served the poultry needs of rural Americans for generations. In fact, for over 75 years we have been a dependable source of credit to agriculture.

Handling Farm Water Worries A Real 'Art' Form

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Anna Brandt recalls that it was about six years ago when the "water worries" ceased.

It wasn't as if the homestead was getting flooded out or anything. But after a heavy thunderstorm, the rainwater got high enough that "you couldn't get into mow it," she said. The weeds would grow real high and get out of hand.

So six years ago Anna's husband, Art, hired a man to grade a field that contained the spring that would erupt after a thunderstorm. The grading was completed sufficiently high enough to divert the water to a culvert which runs underneath Brandt Rd., which navigates through their farm. The spring water, along with house roofwater, drains into a creek which feeds into the Conewago.

When it thunderstorms, the rain simply is diverted to the culvert. In the past, rains would carry stormwater up to three feet only a short distance from the house.

It was more than 30 years ago that the Brandt's started recognizing the importance of ridding the farm of "water worries" and subsequent soil erosion by signing up with the Dauphin County Conservation District. For all the years since, the Brandt's have worked hard to preserve more soil — they turned a creek which was developing from a spring, eroding soil into a collection pond, into a grazing area with a spring feeder. They also installed a water collection terrace in order to preserve their soil.

A few years ago they also installed a concrete-lined, earthen-walled manure storage structure which is emptied twice a year.

For all these efforts and more, the Brandt family was honored earlier this year as Dauphin County Conservation Farmers of the Year by the district.

"I grew up across the field here," said Art Brandt, pointing to a nearby farm. Back then, it was a small dairy operated by his father, Ralph Brandt. Ralph then purchased the home dairy on which Art's family works from Art's grandfather, Haram Bricker.

The farm was rented for a time from a dairyman, Harv Schiffer, according to Art.

Where once the farm contained only about 7-8 cows, it has since grown into a dairy milking about 100 cows with about the same number of replacements. Art, who retired from the business with wife Anna, now helps his two sons farm — Ken, 33, who takes care of the cows, and Mel, 43, who manages the fieldwork.

Art and Anna's other son, Dale, 38, works for Richard Alwine as herdsman. Art and Anna also have two daughters, Verna, 45, a banker, and Karen, 33, who helps care for the calves.

The Brandts farm 80 acres on the home farm and care for another 140. They rent additional acreage. Altogether, they manage more than 150 tillable acres, including about 100 acres of corn, 40 acres of alfalfa, and about 20 acres of spelt. They manage 30 acres in pasture. The pasture is grazed as an exercise lot.

For all their conservation work through the years, the Brandt family, including Art, left, and Anna, was honored earlier this year as Dauphin County Conservation Farmers of the Year by the district.

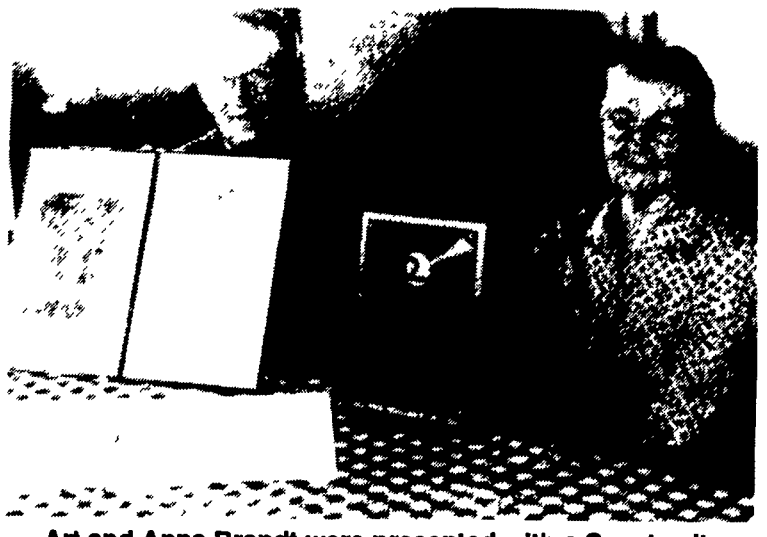
The Brandts raise all Holstein, about half registered and half grade. On DHIA, the herd averages 18,000 pounds of milk, 594 pounds protein, and 709 pounds fat. They use a TMR from a Lancaster company.

Also, the Brandts raise 34,000 boilers under contract with Charles Poultry, according to Art.

One farm, when purchased in 1969, was already under a conservation plan. The Brandts have been cooperators with the district since 1965.

Contour stripcropping is the conservation mainstay of the farm. Hay strips alternate with corn fields to provide control of water and keep erosion in check. The hay strips are maintained as long as possible, depending on the rotation schedule. "We keep on cutting it as long as it stays," said Art, with about four cuttings a year.

In 1992, a concrete-lined manure storage pit was installed. Manure is scraped out of the lot and dumped into the pit. The manure is emptied twice a year and spread right to the fields.



Art and Anna Brandt were presented with a Senate citation and a special citation from the Dauphin County board of commissioners, congratulating the Brandts on the conservation award honor.

The grading was completed sufficiently high enough to divert the water to a culvert which runs underneath Brandt Rd., which navigates through their farm. The hay strips are maintained as long as possible, depending on the rotation schedule. "We keep on cutting it as long as it stays," said Art, with about four cuttings a year.

A big concern years ago was the potential soil loss from runoff on the side of a hill near a barn. Much of the soil is Ungers-Bucks-Lansdale, well-drained on ridges that have siltstone, shale, and sandstone. Underground pipes were installed to gravity feed spring water to a trough, and additional pipes were laid in to feed the water to a holding pond. Overflow is diverted to a culvert, then into a creek which eventually feeds into the Conewago.

One farm has a lot of the hardpan red clay, which can make tillage uncertain and difficult. If it gets too wet, according to Brandt, it packs easily. If the season is too dry, getting a good crop yield can be difficult.

Art noted one Amish neighbor who was able to work the clay soil successfully a short while ago with a team of eight horses.

It was turned and he was able to get it fine, said Brandt.

Most tillage on the farmstead is a combination of chisel and disc. The Brandts use some no-till — but best results with no-till can only be obtained in a moist year because of the sandstone conditions. No-till is nearly impossible near the Conewago Creek, which can pack like a hard clay if heavy equipment goes over it when the soil is wet.

But the sandstone soil holds the water better in places.

Contours around the hills retain moisture and there is little runoff. The topsoil remains deep.

There Are Opportunities In Dairy

GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — For many years now, the Peace Corps has been a great benefactor around the world, yet there are other organizations — non-profit, church-affiliated, people-to-people, farmer-to-farmer — that take generous people to developing countries to help with better food production for starving and malnourished populations.

Many business organizations, some with government funding, also have been active participants in assisting third-world countries.

You cannot overlook the significant contribution of McDonald's, Burger King, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Pizza Hut, to mention just a few companies that have successfully introduced clean and cheap food where it did not exist before.

Yet, althought I have seen Dairy Queens and Dairy Bars in Eastern Europe, I have not encountered them on my assignments to help developing countries in Asia, Africa and South America.

Why is the progress involving milk, yogurt and cheese around the world so low?

In the United States we are convinced of the enormous and unequaled health value of dairy food. Other industrialized countries share the same interest and promotion.

This is evident from the annual statistics compiled by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the International Dairy Federation and the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), which is headquartered in Rome.

In the last two decades, a few countries have begun new dairy industries where there were none before — Japan is a good example.

And in other countries, such as India, a so-called "white" revolution in milk production is going on, although they have a long way to go.

Around 1985, farmers in India produced 13 million tons of milk; today, only 10 years later, they produce more than double that amount — 30 million tons per year! Much of that progress is the result of American help projects.

Importing proven bulls from the United States for upgrading and cross-breeding is one way they help. Teaching methods for improved feed production, feeding and disease control is another.

Yet opportunities still abound in how much we can help people to better feed themselves through improved dairy management with cows, water buffaloes, goats, sheep, and even camels and reindeer.

Despite great progress in India, their milk production level per cow per year is only 2,169 pounds milk — many United States dairy goats give more milk than that!

In Asia, Africa and South America, the level of cow productivity is still low in most countries including China, Egypt, Brazil, Chile, Peru and Venezuela.

A comparison between North Korea (with 5,247 pounds milk per cow per year) and South Korea (with 14,555 pounds milk) reflects the influence of our help.

North Korea has half the people that South Korea has, but produces only one-eighth the total amount of milk per year; that is 9 pounds milk per person compared to 70 pounds in South Korea!

The most telling differences — and the most exciting opportunities for progress — are in the levels of milk production per cow year (or even per goat or sheep per year) comparing countries.

Of course, the challenge is the rapid, even uncontrolled human population growth in many of the developing countries.

However, the differences in milk production levels per animal, which are obviously possible by looking at our own, are such great beacons of hope for those countries, if they only will move forward.

To be part of teaching how to achieve these higher levels is rewarding, and not just personally. It helps U.S. dairy farmers in an indirect way by opening export markets for bull semen, ova, feeds, machinery and pharmaceutical products.

Improving the production level per animal is definitely the best and most economical way to improve production instead of increasing herd size.

In many developing countries grazing is a major part of feeding, and increasing herd size.

In many developing countries grazing is a major part of feeding, and increasing herd size poses a great environmental threat because of overstocking and overgrazing.

Increasing production per animal is most economical because while the cost of maintenance of the cow remains the same, the cost of producing more pounds of milk per cow becomes less with each additional pound of milk.

Israel is a good example for the value of progress in animal productivity compared to neighboring countries and the United States.

Israel produces more milk per person (440 vs. 396 pounds milk) than Italy, for example, because Israel has achieved a much higher animal productivity — 20,656 pounds milk per cow compared to 9,858 in Italy.

In the small desert country of Israel with its shortage of land, this is especially important.

Israel could teach its neighbors a lot about improved dairy management, which would provide more milk and yogurt and cheese to their people.

Using the U.S.D.A. standard daily food requirement of 800 milligram calcium per person, and if all calcium came from milk and dairy products, this would mean a necessary production total per year per person of 541 pounds of milk.

If, as in the United States, 80 percent of the humans' calcium requirement comes from milk and dairy products, the total milk produced per person per year would have to be 433 pounds at least, not counting imports.

Thus the many countries (in Africa, Asia and South America) with milk production below 10,000 pounds per animal, or less than 100 pounds milk per inhabitant have a considerable problem of feeding their people according to their health and nutritional needs.

For now, this means golden opportunities for United States dairy farmers to profit through export.

Brandt held up the farm sign, which indicates his award. The Brandts were also presented with a Senate citation and a special citation from the Dauphin County board of commissioners, congratulating the Brandts on the honor.

As for the metal farm sign, Brandt believes he may put it up at the end of the farm land "someday," he said. "I don't know."

Ken Brandt works in the milkhouse at the farm. He also helps out with some of the fieldwork.

Maryland Has 400 Certified In Nutrient Management

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) Secretary Lewis R. Riley recently announced that 22 candidates passed the Feb. 7, 1997 Nutrient Management Certification Examination, bringing the total number of consultants in the mid-Altantic region certified by the Maryland Department of Agriculture to 400.

Certified consultants are now available to help farmers in every part of the state develop MDA-approved nutrient management plans.

"If Maryland is to live up to its pledge to reduce nutrients entering the Chesapeake Bay by 40 percent and keep the Nutrient Management Program voluntary, we'll need to enroll 1.2 million acres of cropland into the Program by the year 2000," said Secretary Riley.

As of December 1996, nutrient management plans were in place on some 856,000 acres of Maryland's cropland. According to Secretary Riley, this figure could be increased substantially if farmers would make certain that their nutrient management plans are prepared by a state-licensed and certified consultant.

"I know from personal experience that many farmers practice nutrient management, but unless these farmers work with a state-licensed and certified consultant, we cannot include their efforts in our official tally of cropland being protected by an approved nutrient management plan," Riley added.

Farmers participating in the Nutrient Management Program work closely with a state certified and licensed nutrient management consultant.

Using soil tests, manure analyses, and sophisticated computer technology, consultants provide farmers with a prescription approach to fertilizer use.

This helps ensure that nutrients applied are used by crops and not lost to the environment. The average savings for these farmers can be as much as $22.50 per acre. On 150 acres of cropland, this would amount to $3,375 in savings a year.

Farmers interested in participating in Maryland's Nutrient Management Program should call the Maryland Department of Agriculture at (410) 841-5863 or their local Maryland soil conservation district for the latest listing of state-licensed and certified consultants.

Participation in the program is voluntary and reporting requirements do not call for individual farmer names, only the farm acreage enrolled in the program.

Mifflin County Farm Bureau Spring Meeting

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

REEDSVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — The Mifflin County Farm Bureau met in March for a dinner and informative meeting at the Camelot Restaurant near Reedsville.

Teachers Debbie Filson and Virginia Edwards reported on their Ag in the Classroom experiences. Both teach at Strodes Mills Middle School and both have incorporated agricultural concepts into their curriculums because of their week at Penn State this past summer. When Edwards had her sixth and seventh grade students adopt an arthropod, most chose the ladybug.

Filson was impressed with how all the different aspects of agriculture were covered during Ag in the Classroom. Most industry representatives, like the Pork Producers, participated in some way. Teachers studied hydroponic gardening, vegetable and fruit production, food and nutrients, computer technology, animal production and much more. Both teachers continue to receive an abundance of information, including videos, notebooks and updates, from Ag in the Classroom presenters. Filson attended Ag in the Classroom through Mifflin County Farm Bureau sponsorship while Edwards was sent through the Strodes Mills Home and School Association.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Director of Member Services Charles Dahl spoke to the group about new member services. He also presented certificates of appreciation to Ken Loht and Elrose Glick for outstanding work in membership. MCFB president Mark Ellinger received a Legislative award for his leadership. Ellinger updated the group on legislative issues in Washington and Harrisburg.

Elrose Glick presented a proposal for bylaw changes. Procedures should be in place by the summer picnic for an official vote.

CHECK IRRIGATION SYSTEM

Now that the weather has warmed, many activities are under way in preparation for the coming growing season.

I've noticed row covers and low tunnels in many fields as I've traveled around the county. I know that some growers already have crops in the ground. I hope the recent cold weather did not set your crops back too much.

A spring activity that is sometimes overlooked is checking the irrigation system and doing the necessary maintenance to prevent problems from occurring during watering this summer. While most vegetable growers do not reuse their trickle tubing, fruit growers and some small fruit producers need to check trickle emitters for clogging. Clogs can be caused by physical, biological, and chemical contaminants.

Physical contaminants are mainly sediment and other materials that have entered the system and are an indication of a filtration problem. Clean, replace, or reengineer your system to prevent this problem.

Biological contamination is caused by algae or bacteria in the system. These contaminants can be removed by treatment with a chemical biocide. Be sure to flush your system after chemical treatment and check to see that all emitters are now flowing properly.

Chemical contamination results from a precipitate forming in the system during operation. This problem can usually be corrected with water treatment.

Do not fail to examine your pumping system for necessary maintenance, too. Clean protective screens to provide proper air circulation during operation and replace or repair any damaged screens. Lubricate any moving parts that require it.

Filters should be removed, cleaned, and checked for holes or rips. If your filter is heavily clogged, then perhaps you need to consider cleaning it more often. Media filters may need to have more media added to replace any material that was lost during backflushing.

Pressure regulators and gauges should also be checked to be sure that they are operating properly. Chemical injectors should be serviced to insure proper operation. Seals and fittings become worn through abrasion and corrosion and should be examined, cleaned, and replaced as necessary.

Once you have inspected and serviced the components of the irrigation system, it is a good idea to run the entire system to be sure all the parts are working together properly. This could prevent last-minute repairs when you need to water later this year.

Early Season Insects In Sweet Corn

Dr. Shelby Fleischer from the Entomology Department at Penn State advises that there are several potential insect problems in sweet corn to consider prior to planting.

If sweet corn is planted into a field that was previously corn, there is an increased risk of root feeding by corn rootworm larvae. For a high value crop such as sweet corn, an at-planting granular treatment is advised if sweet corn is planted into previous corn to prevent this rootworm damage. These granular treatments should also control wireworm, white grub, and seedcorn maggot.

If sweet corn is planted into a field that was not corn last year, there is little risk of damage from rootworms. However, there can still be risk from other insects during the early growth stages of the plant.

Seedcorn maggots, wireworms, and white grubs feed underground, so they are most likely to be found in areas where plants have failed to emerge or there are stunted or wilted plants. Seedcorn maggots are more likely to infest plantings where there is high level of organic matter (such as recently plowed ground cover or weedy fields) and where manure was applied. Wireworms and white grubs are more likely to infest corn plants that were planted into a sod.

Rescue treatments for these below ground insects are ineffective. If replanting is justified, a seed treatment is a good investment. These seed treatments (not to be confused with granular materials applied at-planting) cost about $1 per acre. The products can vary in their active ingredient and therefore what they will control. Typically, for insect control, they contain diazinon and/or lindane. Those products containing diazinon are better at controlling seedcorn maggot than those containing lindane, and seedcorn maggot is effectively controlled with the proper product as long as each seed is coated.

Conversely, those products containing lindane are better at controlling wireworm than those containing diazinon. However, even these products may not control wireworm at moderate to high populations. None of these seed treatments will control white grub.

Planting Fruit Trees

If you are planting any new trees in your orchard this year, be sure to plant them at the proper depth.

Dr. Ron Perry from Michigan State University states that planting trees at the wrong depth can ruin a new orchard for life. Generally, it is worse to plant the trees too deep because some corrections can be made for trees planted too shallow.

Planting too deep can result in poor tree growth or scion rooting. Stone fruit seem to be particularly sensitive to deep planting. Environmental conditions deeper in the soil inhibit root growth and cause trees to have a slow start. Scion rooting of apple trees on dwarfing rootstocks results in trees having increased vigor and ultimately a crowded orchard. Little can be done to correct the results of planting too deeply.

The standard recommendation for planting grafted apple trees is to have the graft union a minimum of four inches above the soil line if mechanically planted and six inches above the soil line if planted by shovel or in augured holes. The graft union should never be more than 10 to 12 inches above the soil line because it exposes the rootstock shank to dogwood borer damage and results in reduced tree growth.

Grafted stone fruit trees do not have as great a problem with scion rooting as do apples. However, the best placement of the graft union is still slightly above the soil line.

MMI Directors Discuss Legislation

STRONGSVILLE, Ohio — Milk Marketing Inc.'s (MMI's) board of directors recently met with United States congressional agricultural leaders who represent dairy farmers.

The meetings were part of over 85 congressional visits conducted by MMI board members and members of the Council of Northeast Farmer Cooperatives (CNFC). The Council is a Washington-based organization representing four major dairy cooperatives in the Northeast.

Tax legislation impacting the farming community, federal order reform, environmental regulation and trade issues were discussed with the legislators.

"To say that the government has retreated from agriculture is incorrect," said Herman Brubaker, MMI board chairman. "If we refer to subsidy payments, then the government has backed out. But if we refer to the areas of environment, trade, and taxes that are vital to farmers, the goverment is intimately involved. The congress is very much involved in writing legislation that will affect farmers economically for years to come."

MMI Executive Vice President and CEO Donald H. Schriver said, "It's vitally important for congressional leaders to hear the views of the people actually involved in production agriculture. Leaders in congress must be constantly reminded of the problems that face farmers today," he said. "This type of meeting helps get the message to the people who actually write the legislation."

Headquartered in Strongsville, Ohio, MMI is the third largest dairy cooperative and the 11th largest dairy food company in the United States.

In fiscal year 1996, MMI marketed and processed more than 7 billion pounds of milk. MMI represents dairy farm families in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Vermont, West Virginia and Delaware.

Dairylea Officials Give Milk Marketing Picture

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

Lewisburg (Union Co.) - The two leading officers of Dairylea Cooperative, headquartered in Syracuse, New York, told farmers and agribusiness representatives Wednesday that profitability in the dairy industry is not only related to price, it also includes a look at costs, too.

Clyde Rutherford, president, and Rick Smith, CEO, spoke at one of 19 regional informational meetings scheduled in Pennsylvania and New York over the next two weeks.

"There's a lot going on in the (dairy) industry," Rutherford said. "We're in the era when government is getting out of setting prices in all of agriculture. They are not getting out of food policy, because food is not taxed and is an issue tool. When food prices are low, consumers have more income to spend on other things that are taxable."

As for milk production, Rutherford said commercial disappearance has continued to grow so that now production and use is about equal. And price projections for 1997 indicate the average should be just over $14.00 per hundred. This should provide for a fairly good year if we can keep costs in line. And with the international trade agreements, the opportunity for exports helps make the future of the dairy industry optimistic.

In other international market issues, Rutherford said everyone wanted to get rid of the Cheese Exchange, but no one wanted to say what should be put in its place as a reference for the basis of milk prices. Soon cheese will be traded on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. But according to Rutherford, this may be no better, and may be even worse than the Cheese Exchange, because now everything will be done in secret. Prices may be easier to manipulate in the Merk than it was on the Exchange.

As for federal order reform, the goals are to insure an adequate supply of Class 1 milk while an equitable balance is maintained between processors and producers. Also excess hauling and the burden of regulations can be reduced. Regardless of the market structure, dairymen should prepare for a system that is more market oriented.

Smith gave more of Dairylea's involvement in marketing 2,500 members' milk. He said the cooperative is farmer-driven, and they include in their mission statement the desire to maximize net returns at the farm by preserving and enhancing milk-marketing and milk-marketing relationships.

At present, Dairylea is the largest milk-marketing organization in the Northeast with 4.5 billion pounds marketed each year. Their sales approach $750 million this year. They also provide financial and farm management services and have insurance programs that are used by more than 20,000 subscribers. Through a wholly-owned subsidiary, Empire Livestock Marketing, Inc., they provide marketing for 60 percent of the livestock in their coverage area. The cooperative also provides bulk buying services for both large and smaller farms. These services help members reduce costs of various farm inputs through a large-scale buying system.

"If we sound optimistic, we are." Smith said. "We are in a position to work for our farm members, and our profitability comes even though our products and services are competitively priced to our members."

The series of meetings continue through April 30. They are open to everyone, not just members. For times and dates in your area you may call the home office at 1-800-654-8838.

Curtis Gives Update On Animal Issues

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Dr. Stan Curtis, Penn State's authority on animal issues, spoke Thursday morning at the Ag Issues Forum of Lacaster County farm leaders. He said the issue of rights has developed in recent years to include animals.

Dividing the issue into two parts, Curtis said animal welfare says humans have the right to use animals as companions, working animals, food, and lab models. The issue here is where you draw the line on animal well being.

The animal rights issue side is all or none. If the animal has rights they must be honored. In Europe the animal activists tend to deal with the welfare issue. In the U.S. they are on the animal rights side. Here the real driver of farm animal activism is on the side of the abolition of animal agriculture. But they have not received a warm reception so they have taken on other strategies to make it so difficult to raise animals that it is unprofitable.

Curtis complimented the National Pork Council for leadership starting in 1980 to begin to find scientific reasons for agricultural practices. By 1990 all the major livestock organizations had joined in this effort so that a voluntary guideline for animal practices was established. These guidelines are now being revised and should be available later this year.

Presently, the real economic issue for American agriculture is coming to light in non-tariff trade embargo issues. This is where trade barriers are set up along the lines of animal rights or welfare agendas.

In recent months the European Union has been in negotiations with USDA in regard to the importation of pork. The hangup has to do with "sound housing". The Union's concern is about sows that can't turn around in gestation. This affects millions of sows in the U.S and it would be impossible to separate the offspring of sows that are not housed this way.

So, there is an impasse and it is definately an attempt to inflict on us their notions of how a sow should be housed. In situations like this, non-tariff trade agreements become top priority to the economic growth of the U.S. pork industry.

In another example: in the last few weeks, hoof and mouth disease has forced the pork industry to cease all exports from Taiwan, a major exporter to Japan. Now the buyers from Japan are in the U.S. seeking a large supply of pork for their national market. The export potential for our hog producers is tremendous and is predicted to raise live hog prices by $10 per hundredweight for the next three to four years.

But in addition to the willingness to pay top prices for our pork, they are also willing to pay an additional premium on pork produced on open range from Texas and Oklahoma, not because of better quality but their people just like the idea better of pigs produced on open range.

The Ag Issues Forum meets monthly and hears discussion on major issues of importance to agriculture and agribusiness.

State Legislators Say They Don't Understand

"which no one wanted to do. It was just left go and people were not renewing license fees."

Hershey said Brosius made recommendations and then helped to bring logical debate to the issue and helped get votes to get laws passed.

"(Requesting the resignation of Brosius) is a major blunder for the Ridge Admininstration," Hershey said.

"I think, the staff should know when Ridge hires a department head, they do that because they have expertise in that area, and he's an enormously disciplined, principalled person.

"There's an enormous outpouring of emotion (as a result of the resignation)," Hershey said. "It's almost a grieving.

"The timing was deplorable," he said. "The governor is seeking votes for the fuel tax, the divestiture of the liquor stores and they are coming up very soon and to do something like this at this time (ask a popular secretary to step down), it just shows extremely poor timing.

"We think, many of us think, if there were something between (Secretary Brosius and Ridge's staff), we think this could of waited until Ridge's re-election. Then the governor could have simply said he was changing directions.

"It's just sad for the visibility that (Brosius) has given that department."

Hershey recalled that when Gov. Ridge's transition team was seeking out candidates for the position, they called him.

"They said they interviewed half a dozen people, but just didn't have somebody of the caliber they were looking for, and who do I recommend.

"The only person (Hershey and his wife) could think of who has all that background in different types of farming, marketing, Penn State education and knowledge of research would be Charlie Brosius.

"I called him at 4 p.m., on Sunday afternoon in his mushroom house an had a short chat with him," Hershey said. "And he was taken off guard, but he would let me give them his resume,which I did."

Hershey said the transition team gave Brosius a call and then after Brosius was confirmed (June 1995), Gov. Ridge said to Hershey, "You have really sent me a great person.

"I don't know what it means," Hershey said of the requested resignation of Brosius. "(Gov. Ridge's) staff was a young staff coming out of his congressional seat. They served him well and I thought things were being worked out with his staff, but not this."

Hershey said that on Wednesday, he, Rep. Elinor Taylor (the Republican leader from west Chester County), three legislators from Lancaster County, one each from Bucks, Berks, Adams, Lycoming, and Warren counties, and "about 10 or 12 others with us, said we wanted an explanation.

"The chief of staff called us in. We didn't get a straight answer. We got things like, 'We had concerns about a couple of staff members, visibility, management style.'

"If those things were not anything more major than that, it could have been taken care of."

Hershey said, at the least, the Administration could have contacted the Republican leader (Alan Novak) and had him discuss it with Brosius. "My way of doing things would have been to talk to (Brosius). But we think somebody wants the job."

Hershey said that some of the things that Ridge's staff brought up as reasons for the resignation request were things, such as staffing choices, "that were maybe good for agriculture, but not the best political choices, (although) the governor told him he would have free reign on appointments (of department staff).

"Do they want an agriculture expert, or a political hack?" Hershey asked. He said he wants to wait to see what happens next before condemning anybody. "The governor's been a pretty good governor and I've told people that. But this was a disappointment."

Hershey said the news was like "dropping a bomb" on the agricultural community, and him. "I've had calls from the average committee person, people politically astute. They said this was not handled well."

Hershey said that what it says to other highly qualified people in the private sector about being willing to serve state government at such a political level is not good.

"Right now I'm thinking to myself, 'Would I recommend somebody right now? Every department needs a good leader. Agriculture is our biggest industry and we were all happy to be part of this appointment."

Hershey said the impact of the resignation request on the relationships Brosius has established in his representing Pennsylvania to other countries of the world and other states is something that the agricultural industry is going to have to overcome.

Gov. Ridge's press secretary Tim Reeves said that, "They are doing business with a state not a person," when asked about the impact of Brosius's resignation to the image of the state in the eyes of representatives of governments and businesses in other nations and states.

However, Hershey said that he doesn't understand that attitude. According to Hershey (as well as international trade experts), the most important aspect to establishing international trade is establishing relationships.

The integrity of the individual, their honesty and commitment are the differences between establishing trade or not, according to experts.

Hershey said it is even more important that public officials such as the secretary of agriculture have these qualities and also that he visit businessmen in other nations to establish the groundwork for trade.

"This is going to have long-range repercussions," Hershey predicted.

Rep. John Barley, who had originally pushed for an agriculture secretary to come from within Lancaster County, but stated his strong support for Brosius when the appointment was made, said he also was disappointed.

"I had a visit from the secretary (Brosius) Monday afternoon. A courtesy visit indicating that he

In addition to these scholarships, the American Jersey Cattle Association administers the ABS/Morris B. Ewing Essay Contest sponsored by American Breeders Service. The contest winner will be awarded a $500 scholarship.

This year contest entries are to be written on the topic: "How should Jersey breeders adapt their breeding programs to manage inbreeding?"

To be eligible for the contest, applicants must be between 16 and 22 years of age on January 1 of the contest year. Essays should not exceed 1,000 words and will be judged on accuracy of information, creativity, and grammatical correctness.

State Legislators Say They Don't Understand

was contemplating tending his resignation as required of the governor's office," Barley said.

He explained that he knew of Brosius long before he became secretary. They both received Master Farmer honors during the same time period, not the same year.

Barley said he also knew of Brosius because of Brosius's leadership and various services to agricultural organizations, especially being a spokesman for the mushroom industry.

At the same time, Barley said he has to respect that Gov. Ridge has to make those decisions and that it wasn't his place to second guess or speculate on what the specific reasons are for requesting Brosius' resignation.

"I many not necessarily agree with the governor's position on it. But we need to understand that this is his prerogative. The members of his cabinet serve at his pleasure.

"I serve at the pleasure of the voters, and indirectly the secretary serves at the pleasure of the voters, but that's not in the context that I am anything less than supportive of Charlie Brosius.

"He is a very capable, quality individual. I can't say enough good things. I think he did a lot for agriculture as a secretary.

"Policy differences. Differences in opinion," Barley mused about what may have caused a rift between the governor and Brosius. "I fall back on 34 years in a family partnership. Many times the small insignificant issues cause more problems in a partnership than major decisions.

"But (the decision to replace Brosius as secretary) is not up to me. I'm disappointed in it. I've said that.

"Tom Ridge is a fine governor. I have enjoyed working with the Ridge Administration. We have accomplished more in the two and a half years than in the previous 10 years working to enhance business opportunities. As a result we enahanced greater opportunities for agriculture."

And Barley said he intends to keep working with the Administration to keep the momentum going.

He said his understanding of the reasons for the resignation are that the governor wants "... to take the department in a different direction."

He said that perhaps agriculture is owed a further explanation, such as "Maybe a little more detail in the direction and (what are) his hopes for the department, (that) is something that agricultural community can legitimately expect."

Barley said that he doesn't expect that the success of Pennsylvania agriculture hinges on the surprise move. "Agriculture doesn't rise or fall on what 500 or a couple of people in the department of agriuclture do.

"Agriculture in Pennsylvania depends on many, many areas."

In the meantime, Barley said "At this point, I'm watching very closely for the individual the governor chooses for his next secretary of agriculture, and as that selection is made, we will be able to use that as some sort of barometer."

As far as the outlook for Brosius, he said, "Secretary Brosius remains until the end of May. I would hope, the kind of gentleman that his is, that he would be willing to work for a smooth transition for the good of agriculture.

"I have no doubt that he can accomplish that. He's not a vindictive, mean person. He's a fine, fine gentleman."

Chairman of the Senate Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee, Sen. Dan Delp, said that what he got from the Administration in explanation is comparable to the explanations given when a baseball manager is dismissed after a bad season.

"I asked point blank, what was Charlie doing wrong or poorly? I got no response," Delp said.

According to Delp, he too is stymied by the Administration's request for a new secretary of agriculture.

He said the reasons given were not understandable, such as that they were not happy with the "outreach" — that the department was not getting out more to the average farmer.

"I sat in the meeting when outreach was mentioned as being substandard. Secretary Brosius was just to a town meeting I held in my district," Delp said, noting the extraordinary effort this represents.

"He brought his wife. This was quality time with his wife, coming to a town meeting in my district," he said, adding that to him, if that's not an example of outstanding outreach, he doesn't know what is.

"We also could not fathom why, politically, now," Delp said.

"I think the Administration has learned some lessons through all of this, certainly some members of the Legislature."

Delp said he has experience hiring and firing people. "I know there is a right way to let people go. With this there certainly were some errors."

House Chairman of the Ag and Rural Affairs Committee, Rep. Ray Bunt, said, "I'm very disappointed. It was a sad day for agriculture ... when Secretary Brosius gave his resignation.

"I can't think of anyone I've enjoyed working with more — in business or government — than Charlie," Bunt said.

He noted that the legislative successes for agriculture have been greater than during previous adminsitrations and that "Charlie was a key link in the process. He provided the leadership and the necessary direction.

"He went into the farming community and helped sell our proposals and, frankly, he gave us many, many ideas and suggestions as to issues that lay dormant and really needed recodification.

"He was a farmer and a businessman and very educated. You didn't have to educate him about issues. I'm severly

Penn State Researches Perceptions Of Animal Agriculture

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — How do young people learn about agriculture, and where do they get the information? Is it based on science? Or is it from self-serving organizations? To find the answers, Penn State researchers are studying public perceptions of farm animal production methods.

"The information children receive will influence their opinions for the rest of their lives," says Dr. Lowell L. Wilson, professor of animal science. "To make sure children have a balanced view of the use of animals, we need to determine what they know and how they get their information."

Students and their teachers are being surveyed about animal agriculture, animal agriculture by-products, food safety, animal well-being, how animal agricultural affects the environment, and what farmers do to protect the environment for future generations.

Students in grades 6-8 are asked questions such as "Do you know which farm animals these products come from?" and "How did you learn about farm animals?" They also are asked to rank the importance of topics such as safety of the food supply, disposal of animal wastes, use of chemicals on food, how farm animals are treated, and how animals are treated in research. Students in grades 11-12 are asked similar but more detailed questions about topics such as pesticide residues, water contamination, growth hormones and antibiotic residues in food.

Preliminary results indicate teachers are students' primary source of information about agriculture. "This emphasizes the need to determine what teachers know about animal agriculture and where they obtain their information," Wilson notes. "Most teachers do not have direct experience with agriculture. They rely on information provided to them, which may come from activist organizations. Teachers need access to factual, science-based information to give their students a balanced view."

The primary concern of students and teachers in all grade levels surveyed was the safety of the food supply. "This may reflect recent publicity about contaminated unpasteurized apple juice and undercooked hamburger causing illness and death," Wilson notes. "These incidents reveal the power of public perception. Public education has been shown to be the best tool against unfounded negative public perceptions."

All groups also were concerned about animal well-being. "Farm animals are treated differently than companion animals, such as cats or dogs," Wilson says. "Without sufficient understanding of the reasons for farm animal procedures, the general public may view some practices as cruel and unnecessary."

As part of this project, Penn State researchers developed a best management practices manual, which explains practices such as tail docking, beak clipping, enclosed housing, individual stalls and antibiotic use. Other materials, which address issues such as food safety, animal welfare, and farm safety, were developed by members of the Penn State student club Students for the Responsible Use of Animals and are made available at events such as Ag Progress Days and the Pennsylvania Farm Show. These materials also are distributed to Penn State Cooperative Extension county offices and other educational groups.

Farmers in Lancaster County also are being surveyed to determine how they think they are perceived by the public and to give them an opportunity to assess their industry and its methods.

"We chose Lancaster County because it has a growing urban population in a traditionally rural farming area," explains Patricia A. Nordstrom, project assistant. "We asked farmers if they had received any complaints about their operation and the nature of the complaints. They also were asked to rank the concern level of how they believe the public feels about issues such as agricultural chemicals, food cost, disposal of animal waste and farm animal welfare."

The researchers also surveyed 1,500 non-farm residents of Lancaster County. "We also wanted to identify concerns of these residents about area farms," Nordstrom says. "Farmers who are aware of how they are perceived by the general public will be better equipped to address the public's concerns."

Producers, students, teachers and members of the general public are encouraged to participate in this project by contacting Wilson at (814) 863-3659 or Patricia Nordstrom at (814) 863-6059.

Producers are also being asked to participate in a separate Penn State project about animal handling and transportation. "Money, time and effort can be lost if animals are improperly handled or transported, resulting in losses due to stress, bruises, hide damage or injuries," Wilson says. "We're surveying producers about the industry's handling and transporting practices. Producers are asked to identify improvements they have made and where further improvements can be made."

These projects are supported by research funds administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and Penn State appropriations. Other researchers participating in the project include Dr. Timothy W. Kelsey, assistant professor of agricultural economics; Dr. Audrey N. Maretzki, professor of food science; and Dr. Charles W. Pitts, professor of entomology.

Eckel Appointed To State Farmland Protection Board

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced the appointment of Keith Eckel to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board at its regular meeting.

"Mr. Eckel's leadership in the agricultural community, familiarity with state government and his commitment to the preservation of our valuable farmland certainly make him a welcome asset to the board," said Brosius, who chairs the board.

Eckel is a full-time farmer in Clarks Summit, Lackawanna County. He served as president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau from 1981 until April 1996. On April 4, 1996 he was elected to the Board of Directors of the Nationwide Insurance Enterprise.

In partnership with his brother, Doug, the Eckel farming operation consists of more than 1,400 acres of field crops and a successful green wrap tomato production and marketing operation.

In 1982, Eckle, his father and brother were awarded the coveted Pennsylvania Master Farmer award by Pennsylvania Farmer Magazine and the Pennsylvania State University.

Created in 1989, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board is responsible for the oversight of the state Farmland Program. The program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights, referred to as easements, to guarantee that farms will remain as agricultural land.

The board approved today easement purchases of 12 farmers encompassing 1987 acres of prime farmland.

Following is a list of the 12 properties, including owner, township, acreage and purchase cost.

•Chester — Omar and Ruth Beam, West Nantmeal Township, 203 acres, $617,130.

•Chester — Kimberton Waldorf School, East Vincent Township, 165 acres, $686,932.

•Lehigh — Mildred E. DeLong, Weisenberg Township, 133 acres, $304,811.

•Lehigh — Marion P. Houck, Joan L. Drey, Diane F. Wilson and Carol A. Reimert, Weisenberg Township, 84 acres, $184,710.

•Lehigh — Pauline Seidel, Lower and Upper Macungie townships, 98 acres, $244,466.

•Perry — Roy C. Byers, Tuscarora Township, 369 acres, $233,354.

•Wayne — Jack D. and Kathryn Downton, Starrucca Borough, 217 acres, $151,900.

•Westmoreland — Richard O. and Sharon Love, East Hungtindon Township, 97 acres, $174,221.

•York — Melvin M. and Helen E. Glatfelter, Lower Chanceford Township, 99 acres, $131,580.

•York — Joseph and Ada May Koepper and J&J Associates, Inc., Lower Chanceford Township, 360 acres, $445,500.

Including these easements, 728 farms in 37 counties will have joined the program or had easements approved, protecting 91,593 acres.

If this is all your farmowners policy replaces, replace it.

Pa. State Grange Young Couple Face New Challenge

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Challenges.

Challenges are great teachers. They are wonderful motivational tools. And, they tend to open doors to new experiences and opportunities.

Jim and Terri Wertz know a thing or two about challenges.

When Jim was asked to serve as master of this local Grange, Brokenstraw in Warren County, he agreed to the challenge despite knowing little about the office.

"The first time I did the salutation, I messed it up so badly that I wanted to crawl under the table and hide," Jim said.

Later, when asked to work with the Youth Department to increase membership, the Wertzs were up to the task. They've sponsored fund-raisers, held youth events like YABBA Days and talked Grange to prospective members.

They now, however, face their biggest challenge yet. They were selected to serve as the 1997-98 Young Couple at the recent Youth/Young Marrieds Weekend retreat.

The Pennsylvania State Grange Youth Department for members ages 14-35, places an emphasis on education, leadership development, fellowship and fun.

Deciding to run for the Young Couple title, however, almost didn't come to fruition.

"We talked about it and at first said, 'no way,'" Jim said. "But the more we thought about it, we realized it would be a challenge to serve as Young Couple."

Terri agrees.

"You're not going to get anywhere in life if you don't take a risk," Terri said, "and be open to the changes that challenges bring you."

In addition to being a subordinate master, Jim is Pomona lecturer and a past steward and assistant steward. His future ambitions include serving as a Pa. State and National Grange officer while Terri is steward at Brokenstraw Grange and is a past secretary and chaplain.

As the Young Couple, they will represent the Youth Department at State Grange functions including Leadership School, state session and the Pennsylvania Farm Show, attend National Grange in Springfield, Mass., this fall and travel to local Grange meetings to discuss the youth program.

The Pennsylvania State Grange is an agriculture, rural and community service organization with over 31,000 members in 66 counties. The Grange is dedicated to improving life in rural Pennsylvania through grass-roots legislation, performing community service work and offering member services including health insurance and a credit union.

WWW.USJERSEY.COM

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Jersey Cattle Association invites all Internet users to visit our web site at http://www.usjersey.com.

The AJCA home page showcases the only dairy breed showing growth in numbers (according to statistics from National DHIA and the National Association of Animal Breeders). The AJCA web site is designed with four markets in mind, AJCA members, domestic and international dairy producers and students interested in our breed.

Information on the breed, top herds, area representatives and breed programs is available as well as sections devoted to top Jersey genetics (male and female), upcoming features and subscription information, information and applications for junior Jersey members, promotional items, special events, and a page dedicated to the AJCA annual meetings and All American events.

An "information booth" is also available to help users reach members of the AJCA staff and become a member of the association.

In addition to information about the AJCA, pages on National-All Jersey, Inc. and Jersey Marketing Service are also available.

Data available on the National-All Jersey section include facts about Jersey milk components, and "the Jersey Difference," statistics about additional money paid for Jersey milk due to its higher component levels. This feature will be updated monthly to show producers the extra profit potential of the U.S. Jersey.

Jersey Marketing Service has an up-to-date listing of all sales, including an e-mail address to request catalogs. Recent sale averages are also published to help keep tabs on the demand for U.S. Jerseys. Catalog listings from select sales will soon be available at this site.

Secretary Brosius Resigns, State Ag Community Shocked

upgraded for clarity.

They also said he is widely admired and respected.

The question of the timing of the resignation request was raised by a few people also.

They said they wondered why — in the middle of efforts by Gov. Ridge to seek legislative cooperation to approve his budget (which has been widely accepted and praised), and the controversial privatization of the state liquor sales and a gasoline tax — Gov. Ridge wouldn't have waited until at least the end of the legislative session to seek the resignation of one of the more popular department heads, especially one who was widely perceived as shedding a positive light on the Administration.

Legislators also noted, however, that administrative political appointees who serve the governor's cabinet, serve at the pleasure of the governor. They also said that it is the governor's prerogative to hire or fire. The state Senate can only confirm (approve) nominations to cabinet positions.

The news release from the governor's office said nothing about the reasons for the request, only that Ridge had only respect for Brosius and his "... integrity, his work ethic and his dedication to the men and women who earn their livelihood by farming."

Tim Reeves, the governor's press secretary, said Thursday that there was no specific reason for the dismissal, instead saying that the reason was "general," and, "The issue was performance."

"It was not an issue of ideological incompatibility," Reeves said. He also said that Brosius and Ridge are to meet personally Monday.

Legislators from both political parties and both bodies of the General Assembly said they were "dismayed" and "shocked" upon learning of the request and resignation of Brosius, most of whom said that they had become friends of his in the less than two years he has served as agriculture secretary.

Brosius apparently was made aware of the request before the weekend, and on Monday had made several courtesy calls to key agricultural legislators, some of whom he has known for years, and some with whom he had become close during his tenure.

According to legislators with whom Brosius met, the Secretary only visited out of professionalism and principal to tell them face-to-face that he was resigning.

According to a published report, the governor's office was not pleased that he contacted any legislators prior to the governor officially "accepting" the requested resignation.

Rumors of Ridge's resignation request of Brosius circulated Tuesday in the Capitol, though those who had not received a courtesy call from Brosius said they refused to believe it.

An Associated Press wire story was circulated late Tuesday and was published Wednesday morning in the Harrisburg newspaper, while a Lancaster newspaper story on Wednesday included comments from several Lancaster County legislators.

On Wednesday in the Agriculture Building in Harrisburg, television and newspaper reporters attended a public hearing of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board mostly to get reaction to the news of the resignation from representatives of agricultural organizations who were testifying.

Ridge was in Washington DC during the day and legislators, lobbyists, and some others decried the action.

Ridge's Chief of Staff Mark Holman held a meeting with key legislators to discuss the issue. Legislators who attended the meeting said they were not satisfied with the reasons offered, saying they were vague and consisted of nonspecific concerns that seemed easily overcome.

However, Thursday evening, Tim Reeves, the governor's press secretary, said, "The issue was performance."

According to Reeves, "A lot of folks are saying, 'Secretary Brosius is a great man, we can't understand.'

"They are absolutely right. He is a great man. The governor respects him still; very, very much.

"Agriculture is the number one industry. The department has a very important role in promotion. For some time now, the governor has not been convinced it has been achieving the full potential.

"After months of working with the department to remedy that, the governor concluded that the only way to change the department was to change the leadership, and so, we asked for Secretary Brosius' resignation.

"The question before the governor now — the choice before him now — is that he can publicly critique Secretary Brosius's performance and in so doing disrespect him," or not provide any more details about why the decision was made.

According to Reeves, Gov. Ridge feels he can accept any criticism for requesting the resignation of Brosius because he did what he thought was best for agriculture.

"(Gov. Ridge) hopes for the best for Brosius, and hopes that the Pennsylvania agriculture community, in time, will see improved performance."

According to long-time state employees in the agriculture department, there has never been such a resignation.

Though requesting anonymity because of fear of repercussions, they said they thought morale, focus and teamwork at the department had been at a high, and they were shocked at the news.

Employees at the department seemed unusually quiet and sad on Wednesday, according to those who frequent the building.

Robert Junk, president of the Pennsylvania Farmer's Union, said he usually visits the department at least about two days per week, to attend hearings, meetings and to gather information.

"I can tell they're down. There's not an upbeat tempo. A person like (Secretary Brosius) impacts people," Junk said. "Coming from the farm community he build up the department. Employees are dismayed.

"This is not a good message to send to an agricultural community that's upset with government now," Junk said.

"I'm shocked and concerned about what this is going to do to Pennsylvania agriculture.

"We're a little disappointed that the major leaders of agriculture had no idea this was happening. We believe Secretary Brosius was doing a good job of directing agriculture into the next century," he said.

Junk said the resignation begs the question of what the focus of agriculture is to be by the Ridge Administration and whether or not it means that state agriculture is going to continue to move forward.

The Pennsylvania State Grange Master William Steel mailed a letter Thursday to Gov. Ridge that stated, "The Pa. State Grange ... is extremely dismayed over your decision to dismiss the Pa. Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius."

Al Myers, spokesman for the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau said, "We were surprised," especially in light of Brosius' reputation in the community and his ability to deal with people at all levels.

As far as how the agricultural community would now respond to Gov. Ridge, he said, "I would guess there would be some farmers concerned about his dealings with the secretary.

"Certainly when the governor hired him, he was a good qualified person. A lot of good qualified people don't get along with their boss.

"I think it just underscores the fact that you work at the will of the person who hires you, in the political realm."

A group of 39 members of the House of Representatives signed a letter expressing their dismay at the resignation.

Brosius was appointed on March 1, 1995 after a several-month selection process by a nomination team that Ridge had formed to review and recommend possible candidates while he was busy overseeing other issues with the transition of Administration.

During that several-month process, several people from Lancaster County were interviewed for the job as well as others, though the matter was confused with newspaper reports about those interviewed that presented them as likely candidates.

With his family Brosius operates a large mushroom business in Chester County and was asked by state Rep. Arthur Hershey if he would consider being nominated for the post.

Rep. Hershey said he remembers well that Ridge had commented at the time that he was very pleased with Brosius.

Hershey said that at no time was he lead to believe that anything was different, or that Ridge was ever anything but pleased with the performance of Brosius.

"On behalf of the people of Pennsylvania, and particularly those in agriculture, I thank Secretary Brosius for his public service," Ridge said in the news release.

It also stated that, "Ridge said he will begin consideration of potential successors to Brosius, and will seek to fill the post as expeditiously as possible."

No specific names were mentioned as candidates, though Reeves said they hoped to have the post filled instead of having to have someone serve as interim secretary.

Reeves defended the way the resignation was handled.

"There's no sanitized way, and it's made most difficult when it's someone like Secretary Brosius," he said, acknowledging Brosius's popularity.

However, Reeves said that while the department had progressed under Brosius, that Ridge expected more from all areas within the department.

"We don't at all argue that the slice of the department work that (supporters of Brosius) saw was working very nicely. Much was. And the secretary has many accomplishments to be proud of.

"But Gov. Ridge sets high expectations for himself and key aides, and very few people have a complete knowledge of the department."

Reeves also said that making the change of agriculture secretaries now was important because, "Summer is a very, very important time for the Department of Agriculture," adding that now would be a proper time to make a change in order to have it done by summer.

Backyard Wildlife Program May 5

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Because of a scheduling conflict, an educational program about Managing Backyards for Wildlife has been rescheduled for Monday, May 5, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center. The original meeting date was Wednesday, April 9.

Dr. Margaret Brittingham, associate professor of wildlife resources at Penn State and Shannon Thurston, research assistant, will present information for property owners on wildlife habitat requirements; specific management practices for wildlife species including song birds, small mammals and butterflies; and understanding nuisance wildlife and reducing conflicts.

The program is part of an educational series for interested forest landowners sponsored by Penn State University's Cooperative Extension Service in Dauphin County. There is no registration fee but please call (717) 921-8803 to register and for additional information.

House Approves Resolution

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Rep. Sheila Miller (R-Berks) announced that the House has given unanimous approval to her resolution declaring April 20 through 27 as "Pennsylvania Grange Week."

"I am very pleased that this tribute to more than 500 Granges located in the commonwealth was co-sponsored by nearly 100 of my colleagues," Miller said.

The Berks County lawmaker noted that his year marks the 125th anniversary of the Pennsylvania State Grange. Organized by Oliver Hudson Kelley in 1867, this group has worked diligently to secure fair treatment and better conditions for the state's agriculture community and rural residents.

"Rural and farm communities in this commonwealth are vitally important to the welfare and economy of Pennsylvania and the Grange has always been one of our primary advocates," Miller said.

"Many people do not realize that the Grange is very active in the legislative process," the representative said. "The organization was a key player in securing rural free mail delivery, establishing rural electrification, and most recently serving as a strong advocate for increased health benefits for older Pennsylvanians through the PACE program."

disappointed.

"Prior to this, everyone was optimistic, happy with all the people in place and commitment to agricultural issues," Rep. Bunt said. "We received many, many compliments in the office concerning my chairmanship, also Senator Madigan's chairmanship, and Secretary Brosius.

"Everything seemed to be working. Everything was clicking. If you can whistle going into work, it's good, and that's the way it was."

Sen. Noah Wenger and Secretary Brosius have been friends for years.

"I've known Charlie Brosius for a long time, long before he was a secretary of agriculture and I have the highest regard and was very pleased when he was appointed.

"And I am very disappointed with him forced to resign. I think he served us well. He was very well liked, by not only the agricultural community, but agribusiness, and respected by the Senate and House, Democrats and Republicans.

"You'll go a long way to find a person who can step into that department and bring together the people that he had to work with."

Wenger also was part of the group that was to have been given an explanation.

"I don't think we learned anything that was particularly helpful in determining why all this happened," Wenger said.

"All this time, this seemed to be altogether different," he said about working with Brosius in the political arena for the good of agriculture, the community and the state.

NAAB Holds Convention

COLUMBIA, Mo. — In an era of trying to achieve efficiencies, a historic even took place in Albuquerque, N.M., in March, when the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) and the National Dairy Herd Improvement Association (NDHIA) held their annual meetings in conjunction with each other.

There were approximately 400 in attendance with 28 supply companies exhibiting their products. This year's convention was hosted by NAAB and NDHIA. The Convention Committee consisted of co-chairmen Dr. Gordon Doak, NAAB president and Phil Dukas, NDHIA CEO along with Donna Craig, Mary Derby and Chuck Sattler from NAAB and Linda Gourley, Diane Ross and Linda Carruth, NDHIA.

A whole new format was followed beginning on Sunday, March 9, with tours to Zen's Dairy and Santa Fe. At the evening Welcome Reception and Trade Show, guests came together to visit and make new acquaintances while enjoying an informal buffet.

Monday morning opened with a joint Continental Breakfast and Trade Show. This was followed by a joint Educational Session with presentations which focused on "USA Genetic Improvement System — Strengths and Weaknesses" by Dr. John Thompson, CRI/Genex, "INTERBULL Evaluations — What are they and how should they be used?", by Dr. Dennis Funk, ABS Global, "The Effect of ID Errors on Genetic Evaluations" by Dr. Kent Weigel, University of Wisconsin, "Non-Genetic Aspects of Livestock Identification" by Nancy Robinson, Livestock Marketing Assn., and "Requirements for Competing in the Global Marketplace by Rick Smith, Dairylea Cooperative.

After a buffet luncheon in the trade show, NAAB's Monday afternoon business session began with Chairman Bruce Bean's annual address to the delegates. Bean spoke about capitalizing on synergies that result from open and honest exchange of ideas by reflecting on language used in a bulletin in 1923 that presented the concept of the need for cattle testing and genetic improvement to work hand in hand.

Chairman Bean reported to the delegates on NAAB's strategic planning, INTERBULL conversions, the Council on Dairy Cattle Breeding and meetings with the Canadian Association of Animal Breeders. He expressed optimism about the plans being put in place through the NAAB Stragic Plan. The major emphasis of NAAB is shifting from its traditional concentration on the US domestic market and technology to one of much heavier emphasis on the export market and concentration on the political processes impacting the market.

Dr. Gordon A. Doak, NAAB president, reported to the delegates on total sales for 1996 decreased 1.13 percent. Export unit sales in 1996 increased less than one-half of a percent, while the dollar value of these exports decreased almost seven percent. The value per unit of semen exported decreased in 1996 by seven percent.

Action taken by the NAAB board of directors to change their position to support four full releases of genetic evaluations each year beginning in 1997 was discussed. NAAB's increased presence in Washington, D.C. to address international trade barriers was reported. Additionally, support is now being given to Dr. David Steffan at the University of Nebraska to establish a genetic disease diagnostic and consulting program.

Dr. Donald R. Monke, vice president, sire health programs at Select Sires, and CSS chairman of the board, reported on the status of NAAB subsidiary, Certified Semen Services (CSS).

Four directors were elected to serve on the NAAB board: Lloyd Ebersole, Sire Power, Tunkhannock, Pa.; Lloyd Jungmann, Hawkeye Breeders Service, Adel, Iowa; Tom Lyon, Cooperative Resources Int'l, Shawano, Wis.; and Marc van't Noordende, ABS Global who will fill the one-year unexpired term of Russ Berna and then be eligible to run for two consecutive three-year terms.

NAAB bylaws were changed to allow more flexibility in scheduling the association's annual meeting. This will accommodate national organizations that have common interests, in an effort to achieve efficiencies, cost savings

Grange Leader Meets With European Union

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Kermit W. Richardson, master (president) of the National Grange, was invited to speak at the March meeting of the Agricultural Counselors of the European Union.

Richardson discussed the role the Grange has played in agriculture and rural America over the last 130 years.

Richardson described how the Grange was formed and the unique mission and goals the organization has set forth since its inception in 1867.

"From the beginning, the Grange has strived to be an organization that represented the entire farm family," Richardson said.

"As rural America has changed, so has the membership of the Grange. Agriculture is at the heart of our organization and our legislative policy, but we have also reached out and embraced issues of interests to rural families: issues like transportation, education, health care and the economic development and viability of rural communities. Today, the Grange strives to be a voice of reason for rural families across the United States."

The Agricultural Counselors expressed interest in the Grange's position on a variety of issues ranging from farm programs, to conservation and foreign trade. Specifically, the counselors were interested in Grange policy on the Conservation Reserve Program, acreage set-asides, deficiency payments and world trade.

National Grange Legislative Affairs Director Tom Rugg explained to the Ag Counselors that the Grange's position on these issues reflects the organization's unique policy of targeting programs to aid small family farmers, which reflects the Grange's demographic make-up of small to mid-size farmers and the changing condition of rural communities across America.

"Obviously, the Counselors wanted to learn about our trade policy," said Rugg. "Due to the recent concerns regarding trade issues, this was to be expected. I don't think the Counselors were surprised to learn our position regarding world trade, which favors the opening of world markets and the elimination of existing trade barriers. However, I think they were surprised to learn where we stood on a lot of the other issues, particularly those that truly target the small family farmer."

Maryland Brown Swiss Breeders Meet

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

NEW MIDWAY, Md. — Brown Swiss breeders from around the state gathered here at the fire hall recently for the annual meeting of the Maryland Brown Swiss Association.

Approximately 100 attended the meeting, which recognizes breeders and youth for their achievements and accomplishments during the last year with Brown Swiss at the local, state, and national levels.

Cindy Warner, president, welcomed the crowd and congratulated breeders on their accomplishments. Once again, Maryland took first place state herd honors at the 1996 National shows, including the Eastern National at Harrisburg, the Central National at World Dairy Expo, and the Southeastern National at Louisville, Ky.

"Few states can claim first place honors for state herd in one year - but for Maryland breeders it was a repeat performance as this was an accomplishment in 1995," said Warner. She praised the 15 All American nominations from the Maryland Brown Swiss Association, one of the highest numbers in the country.

John Meyer, executive secretary for the National Brown Swiss Association Wisconsin, spoke at the meeting. Meyer brought greetings from the national office and updated the group on programs and progress in the breed association at the national level.

Meyer said Maryland's meeting had one of the largest turnouts he had witnessed in attending meetings around the nation. He said there has never been a better time to milk Swiss as the protein and component markets are always increasing in demand.

"The Brown Swiss Association has a plan to expand into the cheese market by producing Brown Swiss cheeses with Brown Swiss milk," said Meyer. "This is just one plan in a whole new level of promotional activities that the Board and association are planning to get into motion."

Registrations have been down, a trend in almost all the breed associations. The association is actively marketing cattle both domestically and for export, Meyerr said.

Dr. Lee Majeskiei shared a demonstration of the BreederNet web page. DHIA in Provo acts as the server for the program, according to Majeskie. It offers breeders the opportunity to create a homepage for their breeding operation to be used as a marketing tool to promote cattle.

"I wanted to do something for Maryland breeders that would be state-of-the-art," said Majeskie of his role in creating the program on the internet. "It may be a bit premature at this point, but it's coming." Interested buyers can reference your web page and get more information on your farm. Bull proofs are also available from the website, and genetic evaluations on cows are constantly being updated by USDA.

Maryland will be hosting the National Brown Swiss convention in 1999. A progress report was given by Bill Warner, convention co-chair. Dr. Majeskie added to the report that the Maryland Ayrshire breeders are also hosting a National convention and want to explore the possibility of a joint venture in 1999. A quilt was auctioned off as a fundraiser for the 1999 convention. The winning ticket was held by Diane Geary.

New officers for the coming year were elected at the meeting. Cindy Warner of Frederick is president. Dennis Smith of Woodsboro is vice president. Marie Speak-Sipler of New Holland is secretary. Daphne Sigler of Knoxville is treasurer.

Two new directors were also elected. They are Jennifer Keilholtz of Emmitsburg and Brad Garst of New Windsor. Other directors who will remain on are Allen Bassler of Upperville, and Donald Leishear of Damascus.

Three retiring officers were recognized with a special thank-you for their years of dedicated service. Scott Hood of Middletown was past president of the association. Miriam Bell of Woodsboro stepped down as treasurer. And Candy Stowers of Brunswick retired as secretary. Hood was presented with a wooden gavel as a symbol of his leadership, and Stowers and Bell received gift certificates for their service to the

A burst of glowing yellow holds center stage on the kitchen table, bringing a smile to my face each time I walk by.

It's the most casual of bouquets, a large handful of daffodils plunked into a medium-sized pewter (well, imitation pewter) pitcher. Some of the cheery, bright-yellow blooms have large center cups, while others show smaller centers with rippled, orange-colored edges. There are no bows, no ribbons, no fluff. Not even any extra greenery for accent. Just a bright golden burst of flowers, like indoor sunshine, stunning in their simplicity.

Daffodils are flowers of celebration. They make me think of bouquets of balloons held aloft by Mother Nature in honor of warming weather and greening grass.

And their durability is indisputable. These beauties in the pitcher on the table endured the goofy April Fool's weather, having their pretty heads frozen and blown nearly flat against the ground by the bitter and incessant wind.

Meanwhile, keeping me company at the kitchen sink is another yellow bloom. This is a single one, its stem tucked into a dainty, two-inch-high porcelain pitcher. Radiating out from its center are dozens of diminutive, slender petals, reminiscent of the pictures of a sun drawn by most of us as elementary students.

It's the flower of April.

A dandelion.

Admittedly, dandelions don't make the best bouquets. They close up at night, leaving you with a vaseful of what looks like floral has-beens. But, what power of our society ever decided that daffodils are flowers and dandelions are weeds?

And are they?

Our lawn sported at least one precocious dandelion back in early February. There was little foliage around it and the head hugged the ground so tightly that it literally had no stem. But there it was, soaking up the late winter sunshine, looking like one of those grinning, yellow "smiley faces."

How could anyone not like a plant with that much spunk? In fact, if there was ever any doubt about the spunkiness of dandelions, all one has to do is observe where they grow.

Everywhere. In fact, dandelions have surely, in part at least, spawned the burgeoning lawn care industry. Their cheerful propensity to multiply and bring forth oodles more of those pretty yellow blooms drives grass perfectionists to the brink.

We are not grass perfectionists and have a myriad of field chores to do when dandelions are at their yellow peak. So ours will bloom, go to seed, and disappear into the lawn for the rest of the summer. Unsprayed and untreated. So what?

Far more fascinating to me than wiping them out are the extremes to which dandelion will go to perpetuate themselves.

One venerable dandelion plant is the watchdog where the house-to-barn path goes through a gate in the lawn fence. Years ago, it set deep roots way in under the wooden sides of the raised flower border that abuts the path. Annually, at the juncture of the path and the fence, this hugh, thriving dandelion returns. Nothing else will grow at that awkward spot, so the dandelion reigns.

Another determined dandelion plant has poked its way up through the narrow cracks between the patio's concrete blocks. It is fabulously vigorous, with a muscleman aura about it, sitting there surrounded by cement. And, the concrete enhanced the sun's warmth, creating a sort of semi-tropic dandelion microclimate. Thus, it sported fat, wide blooms when most of its cousins were still just breaking dormancy.

However, there will be some latecomer dandelions blooming in at least one spot. October's sodden and squashed leaf pile is finally cleaned up. When the last soggy layer was forked into the yard cart, soil, several anemic looking, jagged-leaved dandelion hibernators sat up and blinked in the sunlight. They grow greener each day.

Lest we forget, dandelion is considered a culinary delicacy and carefully cultivated for a rather exclusive—and expensive—seasonal, fresh market. In addition, the stuff is chocked full of vitamins and minerals.

So for goodness' sake, stop killing your dandelions.

Have 'em for lunch instead.

Art and Donna Bert stand in front of the Clear Springs Mill that they restored recently. The three-story mill with a mansard roof was built in the Second Empire architectural style during the 1880s.

Collectible reproductions in iron, tin, woodenware, handthrown pottery, handwoven textiles, and other 19th century art is available at the mill. In addition, the Berts hold numerous events throughout the year featuring 19th century handicrafts and tasting parties featuring whole grain breads and summer grain salads.

Clear Springs Mill Restored As Community Hub

DILLSBURG (York Co.) — In the 1800s, Clear Springs Mills was the hub of the local community. The three-story mill in the Second Empire architectural style buzzed with the buying and selling of grains. It was a meeting place for rural neigbors and a place to grind a wagonload of corn or pick up a bag of freshly ground flour.

Then the fabric of American life changed. Business dwindled and the mill was silent for 50 years.

About three years ago, Donna and Art Bert purchased the mill, which vandals, rodents, and weather had damaged. The Berks transformed the mill with the goal that it become again a center of activity.

Inside and out, the mill has been restored and was opened for business last year. While the mill does not exactly duplicate the milling practices of the past, it still grinds flour—15 different whole grains, to be exact.

A Meadows Mill with an 8-inch grinding stone is used to transform organic grains into fine powdery flour.

"It doesn't grind as fast as the old type, so we want people to call ahead whenever they want large amounts of flour," Donna said.

Part of the Berts' intentions for the mill is for it to be a place where visitors can learn about history. The Berks enjoy giving tours of the mill and take the time to show visitors the race below the first floor. Although the mill stream has been diverted since the mid 1950s, when the state constructed a highway about a quarter of a mile a away, the lower part of the mill has been retained to show how the water ran over the water wheel to provide water power to grind grains.

As much equipment as possible has been retained to give the mill an authetic ambiance, but much of the mill's iron and steel fixtures had been sold for scrap metal during World War II. The remaining equipment was sold during a 1980s auction before the Berts purchased the mill. Since then, they have replaced pulleys, hooks, and some other authetic fixtures.

Redoing the barn uncovered some surprises such as the cigar sign. When removed, it revealed a hole to the exterior. Inside a miller's desktop was the handwritten scrawl, "Chas quit chewing tobacco 1882."

In addition, the Berts have been fascinated by the trek of people who years ago either worked or shopped at the mill and stop by to tell memories.

These little tidbits of information add human intrigue and helped lighten the work of hand scrubbing the walls and floors of the three-storied mill. The interior wood was thoroughly scrubbed by Donna. It's hard to believe that the wood had once been covered with cobwebs and served as a home for raccoons and other wildlife.

While the Berts focus a lot on the historical significance of the mill, freshly-ground flour is only a small part of the mill's offerings.

For sale are red clay pottery, pewter, yellow ware typical of the 19th century, heirloom seeds, fleeces, hand spun and dyed wool, handpainted frakturs, whittled and carved folk pieces, wild flower plants. . . . "anything associated with 19th century folk art," Donna said.

Donna's large barn loom stands in one corner.

"Ideally, I'd be weaving while the shop is open," Donna said. "But her facetiously-spoken comment exposes the fact that work is so time consuming that she has little time to devote to weaving rugs and linens to be sold at the shop. Instead she relies upon other weavers to provide some of the handiworks for display and sale.

The exterior required 60 gallons of paint to restore the original colors of mustard-colored boards with red barn trim.

The couple share a love for the historical and did most of the restoration work themselves.

The ruins of the saw mill are situated next to the grist mill.

"I'd love to save the sawmill, but it's past the point of restoration, it would need to be entirely rebuilt," Donna said.

"It's frustrating to have more ideas and plans than we have time and money to implement them," she said.

Donna grew up in Ohio, and Art in California. They attended the nearby Messiah College, where Donna studied behavior science and earned a teaching degree while Art studied business administration. In the 1970s, the couple married and renovated an old vacant farmhouse a few miles from the mill.

"We both grew up in families who appreciated historical things and antiques. We often visited old farmsteads and were concious of our ancesters," Donna said.

While the Berts enjoyed fixing up their farmhouse, the idea for purchasing a mill wasn't a long-thought-out plan.

"It sort of began when a friend and I attended the sale of a mill in a different area and I remembered this old mill."

Donna stopped by the business across the street to inquire about the status of the mill. The business owner was a descendant of the former owner. Although she was told the mill was not for sale, a few months later, Donna received a call with the offer to sell the mill.

"I panicked." Donna said. She turned down the offer. But the seeds of possibilities sprouted as she and Art, who owns a restaurant, discussed the mill. They thought of turning it into a restaurant or a bed and breakfast. But eventually the best plan seem to be to use the mill as a showcase for the handiwork of that era.

Freshly ground whole grain flours are available for home bakers. More than 14 different organic grains are stone-ground while customers watch.

"We feel good that we saved a bit of history that otherwise might have been lost," Donna said. "Through restoring this, we've learned so much about the milling business and that time period.

"It's been an enjoyable adventure finding out the history, hearing the stories of people who remember the mill when it was in operation, and the creative sense involved in finding items to sell in the shop."

Some of the upcoming events offered at Clear Spring Mill include a wildflower walk on the grounds with a botanist on April 12; hand spinning, weaving, and dyeing on May 10; a tasting party featuring summer grain salads and healthy snacks with a talk by a nutritionist on June 14; a concert on the lawn on Aug. 13; a tasting party of rustic and whole grain breads on Sept. 6; a harvest festival on Oct. 4; a textile show on Nov. 8; open house on Dec. 6; and an after-Christmas sale Dec. 26-27. To register for classes, call (717) 432-7702.

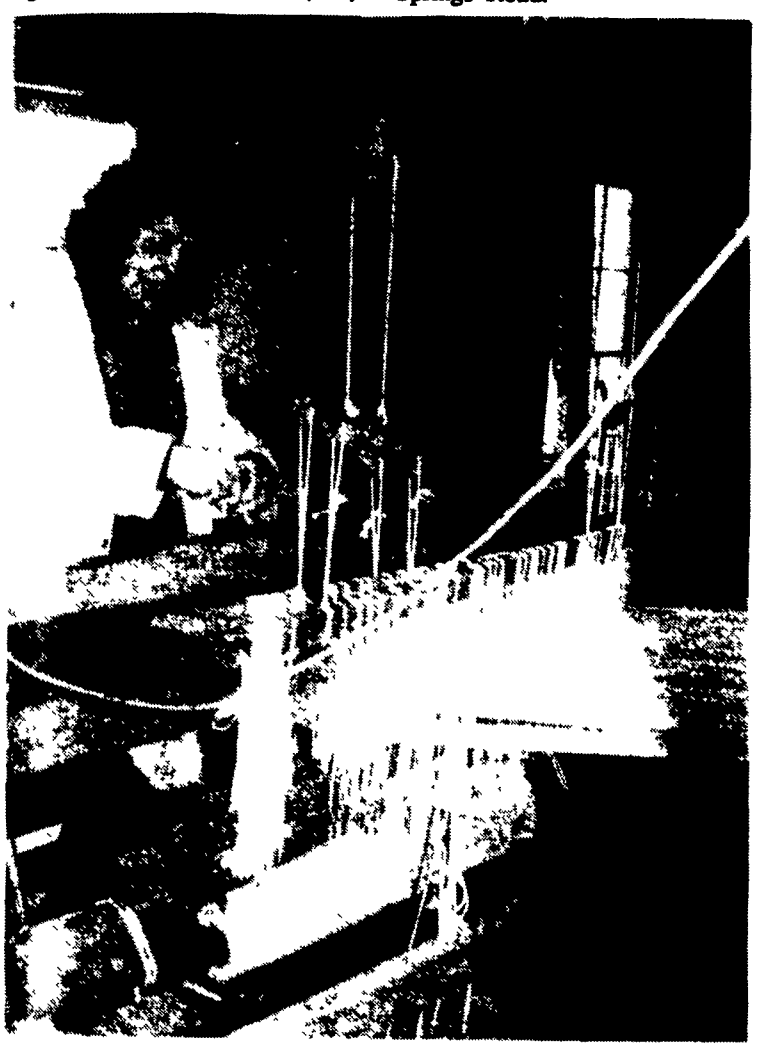
Hours are Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Because of the difficulty in heating the large structure, the mill is closed from Dec. 28 until April 4.

The Clear Springs Mill is located in northern York County. Take Route 15 three miles south of Dillsburg or four miles north of York Springs. Turn east on Clear Springs Road.



A barn loom is set up in the corner of the mill so that Donna can weave rugs and textiles if she finds time between waiting on customers and taking care of the business. She also spins and dyes wool from sheep and rabbits.

Alternative Household Cleaning Solutions

Every home has basic ingredients available that families can use to save money, to protect the environment and to clean household surfaces. Let's call them "alternative household cleaning products."

Many of the ready-made solutions on the market formulated to clean and maintain our homes contain hazardous or toxic chemicals. These products are labeled with words such as: caution, warning, danger or poison to alert users of potential danger. In most cases, safer and money-saving alternatives are available. For instance, did you know that copper can be cleaned with an application of catsup? Just rub on the catsup and wash off quickly.

The list of basic ingredients below can be used in combination or used alone for many household tasks.

Selected Basic Cleaning Ingredients

Ingredient	General Use
Baking Soda	cleaner, deodorizer, fire extinguisher, scouring powder
Boiling water	drain cleaner
Borax*	cleaner, disinfectant, laundry aid, water softener
Lemon	cleaner, deodorizer, stain remover
Salt	cleaner
Soap	cleaner
White vinegar	cleaner, deodorizer, grease cutter
Washing soda*	cleaner, laundry aid, grease cutter, stain remover, water softener, disinfectant. It can be round in the laundry section of grocery stores near the dry bleach.

*These products are not completely nonpoisonous but are less toxic than their ready-made counterparts.

For more specific uses, here are some recipes that will increase the effectiveness of the single ingredient applications:

All Purpose Cleaners

1. Mix 1 teaspoon borax with 1 quart of warm water. Add a splash of lemon juice or vinegar to cut grease.

2. Mix 2 teaspoons borax and 1 teaspoon soap in 1 quart of water. Can be sored in a spray bottle.

3. Mix 3 tablespoons of washing soda per quart of warm water.

Air Fresheners

1. Place desired amount of baking soda in closed areas such as refrigerator and closets.

2. Put 2 to 4 tablespoon of baking soda or vinegar in desired location throughout rooms that need deodorizing.

3. Boil cinnamon, cloves or your favorite spice.

4. Burn matches or a candle.

Carpet Deodorizers

1. Sprinkle carpet with baking soda. Wait 15 minutes or longer and vacuum.

Disinfectant

1. Mix ¼ cup borax in ½ gallon hot water.

Drain Cleaners

1. Prevention is the best method. Use a drain strainer. Do not pour grease down the drain.

2. For maintenance, pour about 1 gallon of boiling water down the drain weekly.

3. Use a plunger or metal snake (snakes may be available at rental stores).

Floor Cleaners

1. Wood or vinyl floors. Mix ¼ cup oil soil with 1 gallon of warm water.

2. Use a mild detergent. Add a few drops of vinegar to help remove grease.

Silver

1. Rub with a paste of baking soda and water.

2. Place a piece of aluminum foil to cover the bottom of a pan. Add 2 to 3 inches of water, 1 teaspoon baking soda, and 1 teaspoon salt per quart of water and bring to a boil. Add silver pieces and boil 2 to 3 minutes. Make sure the water covers the silver pieces. Remove silver, rinse, dry, and buff with a soft cloth.

Oven Cleaner

1. Prevention. Put a sheet of aluminum foil on the oven floor. Be careful not to touch the heating element. Clean up spills as soon as they occur.

2. Mix 3 tablespoons of washing soda per quart of warm water. Spray on and wait 20 minutes. Scrub with a fine steel wool pad if necessary.

3. Mix thoroughly 2 teaspoons of borax, 2 teaspoons liquid soap and warm water. Put in a spray bottle. Spray it on and leave for 20 minutes. Scrub with a fine steel wool pad if needed.

Tile/Tub/Toilet Cleaner

1. Use soap and sponge, or a stiff brush and one of the following: baking soda or borax.

Window and Glass Cleaners

1. Mix 1 part water to 1 part vinegar in a spray bottle. Wipe off with cleaning cloth. (Note: If unusual streaking occurs during the first time you use this solution, it is due to the wax that some chemical glass cleaners contain. Remove wax with a little rubbing alcohol and then clean with above solution).

When using any cleaning products, wear gloves to protect your hands and use the mildest cleaner that will complete the job. Never mix bleach with ammonia or products that contain these ingredients. Always keep cleaning products out of the reach of children during storage and use. (Adapted from Alternative Cleaning Solutions, Cathy F. Bowen, assistant professor, Penn State Department of Agricultural and Extension Education.)

'Pasta bilities'

Pasta offers all kinds of possibilities. No longer do Americans depend upon tomato sauce to dress up pasta — although spaghetti and lasgna remain highly popular.

Americans are acquiring the age-old culinary secrets of the Italians. For centuries they have been tossing hot pasta with no-cook sauces of chopped raw ingredients, olive oil, herbs, and seasonings.

While the concept of tossing hot pasta with a room-temperature sauce may be new to you, these sauces are surprisingly simple, fresh tasting, and healthful.

Reach into your refrigerator and pantry for the ingredients to try some of these combinations. Creative dinners are possible every day of the week with these "pasta-bilities."

SCALLOPS WITH VERMICELLI

1 pound bay scallops
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons butter, divided
1½ cups canned Italian tomatoes, undrained and cut up
2 tablespoons fresh basil, chopped or ½ teaspoon dried basil crushed
¼ teaspoon dried oregano leaves, crushed
¼ teaspoon dired thyme, crushed
2 tablespoons heavy cream or evaporated skim milk
Dash nutmeg
12 ounces uncooked vermicelli, cooked and drained

Rinse scallops. Combine scallops, lemon juice and parsley in glass dish. Cover and marinate in refrigerator while preparing sauce.

In a large skillet, place olive oil, 1 tablespoon butter, onion and garlic, cook and stir onion and garlic until tender over medium heat. Add tomatoes with juice, basil, oregano, and thyme. Reduce heat to low. Cover and simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Drain scallops. Cook and stir scallops in remaining butter in a large skillet over medium heat until scallops are opague about 2 minutes. Add cream, nutmeg, and tomato mixture.

Pour sauce over cooked vermicelli in large bowl; toss gently to coat. Garnish as desired.

Makes 4 servings.

FRESH TOMATO, BASIL AND RICOTTA SAUCE

3 cups chopped ripe tomatoes
½ cup chopped fresh basil
2 tablespoons minced red onion
1 garlic clove, chopped
1 cup ricotta cheese
¼ cup olive oil
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
1 pound pasta, cooked

Combine tomatoes, basil, onion, and garlic. Stir in ricotta, olive oil, salt and pepper to taste. Toss hot pasta with the sauce and serve at once.

WALNUT PESTO SAUCE

½ cup broken walnuts
1 large clove garlic, chopped
2 cups packed fresh basil leaves
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup packed Italian flat-leaf parsley
¾ cup olive oil
½ cup grated parmesan cheese

Finely chop walnuts and garlic in food processor; add half the basil and salt; coarsely chopp. Add remaining basil and parsley. With the processor running, add oil in a slow steady stream through the feed tube until mixture is thoroughly blended.

Transfer to a bowl: fold in cheese. Remove ½ cup of the pasta cooking liquid before draining the pasta. Toss hot pasta with sauce and reserved cooking liquid. Serve at once with additional cheese, if desired.

A bowl of hot oatmeal is a smart way to start the day — and now we know eating oatmeal every day also can be good for your heart. In fact, the FDA recently approved the first food-specific health claim for oatmeal: "Soluble fiber from oatmeal, as part of a low saturated fat, low cholesterol diet, may reduce the risk of heart disease."

If you're like most people, you'll see a reduction in your blood cholesterol levels by eating 60 grams of oatmeal containing three grams of oat soluble fiber (beta glucan) a day. While adding just one gram of oat soluble fiber can be beneficial, there are lots of easy ways to reach the three gram target, beginning with breakfast.

A large bowl (about 1½ cups) of cooked old fashioned oats provides about 60 grams of oatmeal and three grams of oat soluble fiber. So does a serving (1¼ cups) of crunchy oat bran cold cereal plus a lower-fat oatmeal muffin.

To add variety to your cereal bowl, go beyond skim milk and try other tasty toppers like lowfat or nonfat yogurt, wheat germ, fresh and dried fruit, brown sugar, honey and maple syrup, even applesauce.

LEMON BLUEBERRY OATMEAL MUFFINS
(1 Dozen)

1¼ cups Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked), divided
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
1 cup all-purpose flour*
½ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt (optional)
1 cup skim milk
2 egg whites, lightly beaten
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 tablespoons grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup fresh or frozen blueberries (do not thaw)

Heat oven to 400°F. Line 12 medium muffin cups with paper baking cups. For topping, combine ¼ cup oats and the brown sugar; set aside. For muffins, combine remaining 1½ cups oats, the flour, granulated sugar, baking powder and salt in large bowl; mix well. In small bowl, combine milk, egg whites, oil, lemon peel and vanilla; mix well. Add to dry ingredients; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Gently stir in berries. Fill muffin cups almost full; sprinkle with topping. Bake 20 to 24 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool muffins in pan on wire rack 5 minutes; remove from pan. Serve warm.

Add 2 tablespoons additional flour if using old fashioned oats.*

Blue And Purple Perennials Add Color

The best selection of perennials occur in the early spring. If you want a specific color, choose a named cultivar at a local nursery or garden center.

Perennials with blue, purple, and black flowers are growing in popularity. Examples include Bergenia, Lungwort, hellebores and Jacob's ladders. There are early Spring shade-loving perennials. In addition, hostas have violet and lilac flowers that bloom well into the summer.

For moist soils, choose blue and purple flowering perennials like Japanese Iris, Siberainn iris, Great blue lobelia, Virginia bluebells, bee balm, Japanese primrose, or spiderwort. For dry soils, select perennials like baptisias, globe thistle, tall gay feather, statice, blue flax, blue sage, or lamb's ear.

Perennials with strikingly blue, grey or dark purple foliage, include Ajuga, artemisia or huechera.

One perennial with strikingly unique color is Salvia "May Night". It has dark blue-black flower spikes. Salvia "Mainacht" is so good, it was selected as the 1997 Perennail Plant of the Year by the Perennial Plant Association. It has a long season beauty, and is adaptable to most landscape soils.

Salvia "May Night" is a late-spring blooming perennial. Its dark blue-black flower spikes work well as a speciment plant or in perennial borders or mass plantings. Plant Salvia in a sunny spot that has soil that is not too dry or wet. Once established, this salvia withstands even severe summer droughts.

Salvias are members of the large mint family. As a result, the fragrant foliage is minty to the touch. Its flowers are attractive to bees and other garden-flower pollinators.

Salvias do best in rich soils. A spring application oaf an organic fertillizer or 10-10-10 or 10-6-4 at the rate of 1-2 lbs per thousand square feet is adequate.

Salvia "May Night" is especially good in combination with Achilla "Coronation Gold" or with pink or red herbaceous peonies. When mature, the plants are 2 to 2 1/2' tall and 1-2 feet across. Bloom time extends from May to July.

Salvia "May Night" also looks great with other blue-flowering perennials, such as ladybells, carpathian bell flower, balloon flower, catmint and speedwell. It also looks great among yellow-flowering daylilies, coreopsis and all types of yarrow.

ANSWER — Kathie J. Comly, Bellefonte, wanted a recipe for perogies. Thanks to Frances Homa, Alpha, N.J., for sending a recipe.

Perogies

Dough:
½ cup butter
1 cup cottage cheese (small curd)
2 eggs
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
Mix ingredients to form dough.

Filling:
6 to 8 potatoes, cooked and mashed
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons butter
¼ pound grated cheddar cheese
Roll out dough on floured top. Use coffee cup to press out circles. Spoon 1 tablespoon potato mixture into dough circle. Fold in half and dampen edges with water. Press edges together. Boil 1½ quarts water with ½ teaspoon salt. Drop perogies into boiling water for 3 minutes. Saute perogies in brown butter with onions. Makes 24 perogies.

ANSWER — Sarah Clark of Everett wanted a recipe for Pilgrim Bread. Thanks to Frances Homa, Alpha, N.J., for sending a recipe.

Pilgrim Bread

½ cup yellow cornmeal
⅓ cup packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 cups boiling water
¼ cup cooking oil
2 packages active dry yeast
½ cup warm water
¾ cup whole wheat flour
½ cup rye flour
4¼ -4½ cups unbleached white flour
Thoroughly combine cornmeal, brown sugar and salt; stir gradually into boiling water. Stir in oil. Cool to lukewarm (about 30 minutes). Soften yeast in warm water; stir into cornmeal mixture. Add whole wheat and rye flour; mix well. By hand, stir in enough unbleached white flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured surface; knead until smooth and elastic (6 to 8 minutes).

Shape dough into a ball. Place in lightly greased bowl, turning once to grease surface. Cover and let rise in warm place until double 50 to 60 minutes. Punch down; turn out onto lightly floured surface and divide in half. Cover; let rest 10 minutes. Shape into two loaves and place into two greased loaf pans. Cover and let the loaves rise in warm place until double. Bake the loaves at 375 degrees until done, about 45 minutes. Remove from pans and cool on wire rack.

ANSWER — Helen Hertzler of Morgantown wanted to know what causes muffin batter to bake around the outside first and then push up through the top, forming strange-looking growths and then baking firm. Thanks to Patty Capriola, Malvern, who writes that several things may contribute to this problem. To eliminate the problem, make sure mixing the batter is held to a minimum of 10-20 seconds and leave some lumps in the batter. If beaten too long, the gluten in the flour will form and toughen the dough and the muffin will be too coarse and form tunnels. Second, the oven must be the right temperature and preheated to 400 degrees. If oven heat is too slow, the muffin will form peaks. If oven is too high, the muffin will have a cracked, wobbly peak and unsymmetrical shape. She suggests checking the oven temperature by purchasing an oven thermometer

by

Ida Risser

It has been years since I had to drive children to a school bus. You see, we lived almost a mile from the bus stop and in order for them to do barn chores before school, I drove them to the bus. That meant jump out of bed and get dressed.

But now that we are out of the farmhouse, I no longer have such a schedule. No one knows or cares if I eat breakfast in my bathrobe and slippers. My husband has risen at 5 a.m. and is busy feeding animals on the farm.

My mother was always very conscious of style, and we wore hats and white gloves to church every Sunday. Even when I first got married, I tried to follow the same schedule. This meant new clothes for Easter for myself and the children. Nowadays, not many new hats are seen in church. Instead there are fancy hair styles.

My children often give me some of the clothes that they wore for their business jobs so I do not need to shop. And, for everyday I wear some clothes that they made for 4-H projects several decades ago. I will admit that some need repairs every now and then.

Other women tell me that they too do some shopping from catalogs. No driving to a shopping center, no hunting a parking place or contending with sales persons. The mailman delivers a coat, a dress or even underwear. Sometimes one is disappointed with a purchase but usually it turns out all right.

Time seems to change our perspective on many things. One of these is the need to always appear at our best.

MooKooler Responds To Consumer Demand

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A new flavor joins the Moo Kooler™ product line, providing consumers with the berry sensation they are seeking. The American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East will unveil Strawberry Blast™, made with all natural ingredients, this month.

Since Moo Kooler was first launched in Columbus and Cleveland, Ohio and Pittsburgh, Pa., the product distribution has been expanded to five additional cities in Ohio. Plans are underway to roll out Moo Kooler in western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Moo Kooler is a line of 2%, branded, flavored milk attractively packaged in 12-ounce, recyclable plastic bottles with twist-off lids. Geared specifically for kids, the labels are bright and colorful sporting a "kool" cartoon cow. Moo Kooler is available as single servings or in easy to carry 4-packs, and can be found in the refrigerated dairy case in grocery stores. The new product is designed to increase milk consumption among kids by making milk "kid kool."

The dairy industry recognized its need to be innovative if it was going to attract younger consumers. According to a study conducted by the Wirthlin Group, school age children perceive milk as "boring, dull and uninviting," while soft drinks and fruit drinks, were listed as "fun, exciting and refreshing." Current statistics support the study's findings. In fact, per capita milk consumption among children, ages 6- to 12-years-old decreased from 28.8 gallons to 25.7 gallons during the past 10 years. At the same time, sodas and juices increased from 34.8 gallons to 40.3 gallons.

Dairy Council "Kids in the Kitchen" Activities Take Kids and their Parents on a Fantastic Adventure!

CHERRY HILL, NJ – Dairy Council, Inc. recently welcomed Chef Richard Spurlock into Chef Combo's Kitchen in the Discovery Diner at the Garden State Discover Museum for "Kids in the Kitchen" activities. As part of this event, Chef Spurlock led parents and their children through hands-on cooking demonstrations with dairy products.

The Discovery Diner provides hands-on learning opportunities for children. While playing in Chef Combo's Kitchen, children and their parents can learn about health and nutrition. Chef Combo's Kitchen at the Discovery Diner is sponsored by Dairy Council, Inc., an affiliate of the National Dairy Council. Chef Combo's Adventures in Tasting and Nutrition is a nutrition education program developed for preschool and kindergarten educators. The interactive classroom program includes family newsletters which bring nutrition education messages home for parents and caretakers.

Activities inside the Diner encourage tasting and appreciation of new foods through imaginative play with menus and food models, making food fun for children and parents alike. For parents who are challenged by a picky eater, Chef Spurlock's demonstrations provided an opportunity for parents to introduce their children to new foods through creative activities.

"Kids aren't little adults when it comes to nutrition and food acceptance. Research shows that a child must be introduced to a new food 8-10 times before he or she will try it," explains Althea Zanecosky, Registered Dietitian, of Dairy Council. "Studies also show that young children tend to imitate their parents' eating behavior and learn significantly from conversations with their parents about food," she adds.

The Garden State Discovery Museum is located in Cherry Hill, New Jersey. Its exhibits are designed to challenge the children's imagination and curiosity to learn about themselves and their environment.

Serving Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware, Dairy Council, Inc. is a non-profit nutrition education organization located in Southampton, Pennsylvania. Funded by dairy farmers, Dairy Council's programs for educators and health professionals promote consumer health and awareness through nutrition education.

Llama And Alpaca Festival To Be Held In Reading

READING (Berks Co.) — Many unusual and enjoyable experiences await visitors to the Eastern Llama and Alpaca Festival on May 3 and 4. The fun will take place at Charming Forge Farm, near Reading.

Forty-eight owners of llamas and alpacas from eight eastern states will be on hand to demonstrate all the enjoyable and useful aspects of living with llamas and alpacas.

Admission to the two-day event is free and will focus on education and fun for people of all ages.

The public is invited to gain hands-on experience with these lovable creatures, as breeders lead demonstrations on how to halter, lead, groom and show the animals. Spinners, weavers, and felters will display their skills with the luxuriously soft fiber that these animals produce.

This is one of 200-300 llamas to be seen at the upcoming Eastern Llama and Alpaca Festival.

Llama "Olympics," anyone? Visitors will be entertained by llamas and alpacas performing obstacle course challenges: hurdles, a limbo bar, relay races, you name it.

For shoppers, llama-related souvenirs, wool, jewelry, handcrafted garments, and even some llamas and alpacas will be for sale. Refreshments will be available at reasonable prices.

Llamas are among the world's oldest domesticated animals. They've been used as pack animals in the Andes Mountains of South America for 6,000 years. They provided herdsmen with meat, wool, hides for shelter and manure for fuel.

Llamas and their smaller relative, the Alpaca, make wonderful pets and companions. Their gentle demeanor and natural friendlisness make them ideal animals to cheer the sick and elderly, and to visit children in schools. They do great public relations work like greeting customers at bed and breakfasts.

Llamas, and especially Alpacas, have been recognized for their fine fiber. Many more items such as sweaters, hats, and coats are being produced to meet the increasing demands. Spinners and weavers who in the past have used standard wools are now choosing the alternative fiber.

Llamas and Alpacas have become increasingly popular in the past few years, but many people still have unanswered questions and no place to find the answers they are searching for. This is what prompted a group of Pennsylvania and New Jersey breeders to join together to provide such an outlet. The Eastern Llama and Alpaca Festival is an outlet where breeders from eight eastern states will collaborate in order to educate the public and provide "hands-on" experience.

The public is invited to join in this fun-filled, two day, free event which will take place on May 4 and 5. Breeders will lead hourly demonstrations on caring for the animals as well as grooming, shearing, packing, and felting. Visitors will be entertained by llamas and alpacas performing obstacle course challenges and the limbo bar. They will also be given an opportunity to try their hand at it. Children will be encouraged to "lead a llama." For shoppers, llama/alpaca-related souvenirs, wool, jewelry, hand-crafted garments, and even some llamas and alpacas will be for sale.

The festivities will be hosted by Charming Forge Farm and begin at 10 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, ending at 5 p.m. each day. It is free to the public. For more information contact Karen O'Neill at (610) 589-5142.

Directions: Follow llama signs from Route 78, Exit 6 Rehresburg, Rt. 419 South.

FLY & ODOR CONTROL

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

We Take Customer Satisfaction Personally

Nora Myer is surrounded by her grandchildren, Brandon, 14, Corby, 12, and Heather, 8, who are children of Carol and Dean Ziegler; Justin, 7, and Shelbin, 5, sons of Chris and Gary Myer; and Cassandra, 5, daughter of Karen and Brian Wagner. Because these six grandchildren attend Manheim Christian Day School, Nora has quilted the Multi-star quilt shown in the background for the upcoming benefit sale to be held April 25-26.

Grandmother Quilts For Upcoming Benefit Auction

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — For most people, the annual auction held by the Manheim Christian Day School is a two-day affair. But for Nora Myers of Elm, the auction means months of work without pay.

Monetary pay, that is. Payment comes in other forms.

Nora is one of the persons who works behind the scenes quilting those beautiful quilts that annually draws customers from out of state.

While still a young girl, Nora learned to quilt from her mother. But she had little time perfecting the skill after becoming a widow at a young age and raising three children.

"Besides, back then, people preferred chenille spreads. Quilts weren't popular," said Nora, who always kept busy knitting, crocheting, or embroidering.

After her children were grown and Nora retired from her job, she began quilting in earnest. After making a quilt for each of her children, nine grandchildren, and some for herself, she began quilting for others.

Because she has grandchildren attending the Manheim Christian Day School, Nora considers quilting as a contribution to their education.

For this year's benefit sale, Nora quilted two quilts, "Country Love," and "Multi-Star."

"I almost always have a quilt in. It's hard to tell how long it actually takes because I just do it whenever I have time," she said.

In addition to quilting the two quilts in her home, Nora also quilts with other women from the White Oak Church of the Brethren, which also donates quilts to benefit sales for church schools and relief auctions.

While most people might base the success of sale on whether or not they purchased a bargain, the success of a benefit sale depends on how much is raised to help the Manheim Christain Day School. In it's 21 years of holding the sale, the profits have grown from a few thousand that first year to $100,000.

The auction no longer resembles the one held 21 years ago. From a few hours on a Saturday, the auction has grown to include a Friday evening chicken barbecue and preview to Saturday morning country breakfasts and hundreds of new items donated by businesses and individuals.

The benefit sale is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26.

The Friday night chicken barbecue is from 3 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. The auction of plants, pork roll, selected certificates, carpet, and lawn and garden items begins at 6 p.m., culminating with a Winross truck auction at 8 p.m.

Country breakfast of egg omelet and toast or pancakes and sausage with orange juice and coffee will be served from 6-10 a.m.

The Saturday auction begins at 9 a.m. An art auction with a collection of original, limited, and open edition prints will be held at 11:45. At 12:30 p.m., a special features sale includes unique items such as a weekend at a Victorian Bed and Breakfast, autographed sports parphernalia, and a sugar maple tree planted on the highest bidder's property. A quilt auction of more than 30 quilts will beging at 1 p.m.

Homemade baked goods, soups, ice cream and other food will be sold throughout the day at food stands.

For a brochure or for more information about the school, call (717) 665-4300.

The auction will be held on the school's premises located one mile north of Manheim, Route 72, 5 miles south of Pennsylvania Turnpike Exit 20.

Advancing The Way You Harvest... Again.

At GLEANER we never stop looking for ways to improve your bottom line. So we've put our heads together and have come up with new features on the 1997 combines designed to increase your profits, enhance performance and strengthen reliability. So keep reading.

- ADJUSTABLE SEPARATOR GRATE
  This new feature improves performance and efficiency in extreme crop conditions while increasing your profit potential.
- INSULATED EXHAUST PIPE
  A double wall and insulated exhaust pipe reduces the external temperature and the potential for heat build up.
- LOWER ACCESS (LEAF SCREEN) DOOR HANDLES
  Handles have been installed on the lower access doors, making it more convenient to close the screens.
- FOREIGN OBJECT/STONE TRAP
  The optional foreign object/stone trap gives you a choice in the kind of stone protection you want. The stone trap is a helpful alternative to the thresher concave door and offers two types of protection.
- HEADER DRIVE JACK SHAFT
  The constant speed header drive jack shaft has been redesigned on the grain version combines to give you better performance and greater reliability.
- VARIABLE SPEED CORN HEADER DRIVE BELT
  An improved variable speed corn header drive belt increases belt life and improves power transfer and performance.
- REAR FEED DRUM ARMS
  The rear feed drum arms have been redesigned for additional strength and reliability. And the floating drum improves feeding while increasing harvest productivity.
- REAR CONVEYOR FLOOR CROSS MEMBER REDESIGN
  The thickness of the material in the rear conveyor floor cross member has been increased to extend its life and reduce maintenance costs.
- DISTRIBUTION AUGERS AND TROUGHS
  In the grain distribution system of the R62 and R72, we've redesigned the front distribution auger, and the right rear inner trough has been removed to improve distribution. The changes make for improved cleaning capacity and better performance.
- SHOCK ABSORBER
  An improved shock absorber improves the reliability of the grain bin unloading auger. The efficient, high-capacity, swivel unloading system provides less grain damage and lower horsepower consumption with fewer moving parts and easy clean out.
- FRONT FEED DRUM EXTENSION (LTM)
  Improves feeding in wheat when using the model 400 rigid grain headers with the lateral tilt mechanism.

To see these new advancements for yourself, contact your nearest GLEANER dealer today. They'll be glad to show you how these new additions can make a significant difference to your bottom line.

West Snyder FFA

Eight members from West Snyder FFA participated in the Vocational Education Week at the Capitol in Harrisburg as sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Education.

Chapter members constructed a booth titled "FFA Improves The Bay," which featured the 1995 community service project conducted by the chapter. The theme for the celebration was "Integration of Academics into Vocational Education."

Four members — Luke Zerby, Michele Fetterolf, Tiana Weller, and John Walter — traveled to the Capitol to set up and operate the West Snyder display. An opening ceremony was held by the secretary of education and members of the legislation proclaiming Vocational Education Week in Pennsylvania.

Joe Kramer, Steve Opdyke, Jodi Moist, and Ben Boonie went to the Capitol for breakfast with the legislators and to operate the booth for the day. After a tour of the Capitol each day, the members handed out Pennsylvania apples to the audience.

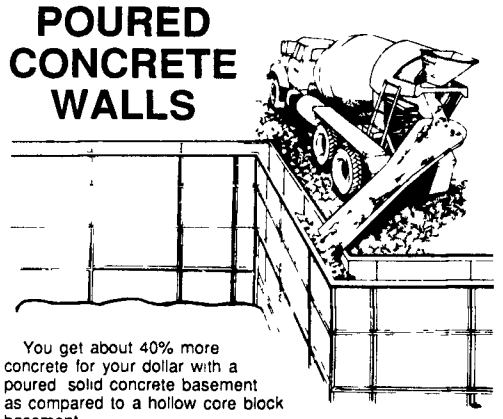
POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques poured solid concrete basements are competitively priced

ANSWER — Peggy Miller of Leesport has a surplus of goat milk and wanted recipes, formulas, and any other ideas for using the excess milk. Thanks to Linda Martin, Lititz, who sent this recipe and also several food recipes for using excess milk. Look for the food recipes in the "Cook's Question" section.

Goat Milk Soap

3 pints cold goat milk
1 can lye
5 pounds lard
4 tablespoons Borax
1 dram scented oil without alcohol
2 cups ground oatmeal
2 ounces glycerine

Mix lye into milk by sprinkling slowly over a 30-minute time period. Have bowl on a pot holder as the mixture will become very hot. The mixture will turn orange. Cool to 85 degrees.

Warm lard to 85 degrees. Mix lard and all other ingredients gradually, stirring slowly.

Oatmeal can be ground in a blender until powdered. Separate with a flour sifter and measure.

Pour soap into a lined box. Allow to set 24 hours before cutting into bars. Keep soap covered with a cloth. The soap must cure three weeks before wrapping. Aging is very important.

Soon after the soap is made, there is still free lye in it, so be careful when handling. When lye and fat are brought together under the right conditions, they react to make soap. This process is called saponification.

Be sure to use only stainless steel or glass bowls and a wooden spoon when making the soap.

ANSWER — Bette Ann Bleam, Green Lane, wanted directions for making wreaths from rope-style baling twine. Thanks to Brenda Oberholtzer, Nottingham, for sending the following instructions.

Baler-Twine Wreaths

Large Braid: Cut 12 lengths of 92-inch twine. Tie ends together on one end with a twister. Repeat 2 more times so that you have three groups of 12. Put three groups together and tie one end with an 8-inch piece of twine and braid them together (not too tightly). Tie other end. Lay a brick on end to hold while braiding.

Small braid: Do exactly the same as the large braid except cut 82-inch lengths.

Small wrapping braid: Cut 9 lengths of 60-inch twine. Tie one end together with a 6-inch piece of twine and braid tightly. Tie other end together with a 6-inch piece of twine. Lay large braid on outside of 15-inch wire frame, overlapping at bottom.

Lay small braid on inside of frame, overlapping ends at bottom.

Take small wrapping braid and wrap completely around both braids and wire at the bottom tucking ends in back.

Turn wreath over and with a 2-yard piece of jute or heavy string and a large-eye needle, sew both braids to the wire frame taking large stitches. Remove holding ties and unravel ends of braids and trim to about 8-inches.

Add dried materials desired, gluing them into the twine.

Mother's Day Surprise

Video Report

The Two Thousand Mile Harvest with Dylan Winter is the video story of the men and machines that follow the ripening grain from south to north. Every year ten of the world's largest combines follow the cereal harvest of North America. Writer and broadcaster Dylan Winter joins the team for the five-month journey from Texas over the heartland of the United States to Lethbridge in Alberta, Canada. The Payne family and their crew of eighteen show what life on the road is like through their working days—coordinating moves from site to site, coping with machinery on a grand scale, progressing with humour and ingenuity through the unpredictable and evocative Midwestern landscape.

Dylan's unconventional approach interprets this unique annual event as the ultimate Harvester's road movie. For more information or to purchase contact Diamond Farm Enterprises, Box 537, Alexandria Bay, New York, 13607. Phone: (613) 475 1771.

Rhubarb Tapioca

2 cups chopped rhubarb
24 stewed prunes
¼ cup prune juice

¾ cup uncooked oatmeal
1 cup brown sugar, packed
½ cup melted butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine the following:

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Cut into squares and serve while warm. May be served plain or with cream.

Place half of the crumb mixture in the bottom of a greased 8-inch cake pan. Press down rather firmly. Combine rhubarb, brown sugar, and lemon juice. Spread over top of crumb mixture. Add remaining crumbs and press down with a spoon. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes. Serve warm with rich milk or cream.

¼ cup sugar
1 cup milk

Cut bread in small cubes. Place half of bread cubes in a greased baking dish. Add rhubarb and sprinkle with sugar and nutmeg. Top with remaining bread cubes and dot with butter. Beat egg, add sugar and milk. Pour mixture over contents of baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 40 minutes or until a silver knife comes out clear when inserted in pudding. Serve warm or cold with rich milk or cream.

ANSWER — Thanks to Lynda Bell, Lincoln University, for answering a request for a simple, foolproof recipe for homemade soup.

Corn Chowder

2 slices bacon
½ cup chopped onion
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup milk
⅔ cup water
1 cup diced cooked chicken
½ cup frozen corn

Place bacon in a medium saucepan and cook until crisp. Remove bacon, dry on paper towels. Reserve drippings (about 1 tablespoon) in saucepan. Crumble bacon, and set aside.

Saute onion in bacon drippings until transparent. Stir in remaining ingredients. Sprinkle in the bacon. Cook over low heat until thoroughly heated.

ANSWER — A reader wanted good recipes to make cheese and other recipes to use up excess milk. Here are several from Linda Martin, Lititz, which are suitable for either goat's or cow's milk.

Mild-Flavored Hard Cheese

Heat 2 gallons milk in a stainless steel kettle to 180 degrees or 190 degrees. If it boils, it will still work but cheese may be drier. Remove from heat and add vinegar until it separates (approximately ½ cup.

Pour the cheese into a colander to drain the whey. Once it's drained, add 2½ teaspoon salt to the curds using a fork to stir. While still hot, put the curds into some kind of mold with holes at the bottom and sides so that it can drain. (I use the top part of a vegetable blancher). Cut a plastic lid to fit and punch holes for the top. For weight, fill a 5-quart plastic ice cream pail with water. Or you can put a cheesecloth into the colander and gather the curds tightly in the cloth and let set. Let it drip and harden in a cold place overnight. Remove from mold and enjoy.

For variety, add dried, ground jalapeno peppers or cheddar cheese powder, etc., when adding the salt.

For cottage cheese, cool curds in whey. Drain through cloth, allowing curds to drip until dry. Place them in a bowl and add salt, enough milk to moisten the curds.

Variation: add parsley flakes and all-purpose seasoning.

Yogurt

Heat 2 quarts milk to 185 degrees. Cool to 110 degrees. Add yogurt starter, which is available from New England Cheese Making Supply Co., Box 85, Main St., Ashfield, MA 01330-0085 or call (413) 628-3808 or Fax (413) 628-4061.

Cool to 110 degrees. Let set for 6-12 hours or longer, keeping temperature at 110 degrees.

When thick, add ⅔ cup flavored gelatine dissolved in 2 cups hot water, beat well and cool.

Or, add vanilla and sugar or thickened and sweetened fruit juice with Clear Jel and chop the fruit and add to plain yogurt.

To help it become thicker, add 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine, which has been soaked in a bit of cold milk before adding to the hot milk before cooling to 110 degrees.

Book Report

Barns, Sheds and Outbuildings by Byron Halstead is in its second printing. Although it dates from a time before power tools, electricity, and gasoline, this book abounds in simple ideas that rural householders and farmers find useful today. Barns, poultry houses, piggeries, corn cribs, ice houses, spring houses, granaries, smoke houses, root cellars, and even kennels and birdhouses are included in this fascinating compendium from days gone by.

5-1/2" x 81/2"; 240 pages; 257 illustrations; paperback; $12.95 plus $2.50 shipping and handling. Alan C. Hood & Company, Inc. Box 775, Chambersburg, PA 17201.

Spending Effects

RUTGERS, N.J. — According to the San Diego-based National Center for Financial Education (NCFE), today's spending decisions can greatly affect tomorrow's future financial security. Money that is saved in your 20s and 30s can multiply handsomely, given both time and a decent rate of interest.

To illustrate the relationship between spending and asset accumulation, the NCFE estimates that the "real" difference in price between a full-sized car and a compact car is not around $10,000 (as most of us would guess) but, rather, a cool million dollars. Say what? Cars are expensive but not that bad, you say. Read on.

The NCFE does the math as follows: Borrowing $25,000 for a new full-size car over 4 years will cost about $634 a month. Borrowing just $15,000 for a compact car will cost only $381 a month. At age 30, begin saving the difference — $253 a month — for 35 years.

Earning an 8 percent average rate of return, the $253 a month will grow to $580,352. If one were to get monthly payments of $4,000 from that sum from ages 65 to 90, the total from that sum would be over $1 million. That's the magic of compound interest. But it isn't retroactive.

If the $253 car loan difference in the example above were saved for only 25 years, it would grow to just $240,000. Paid out at $1,857 a month, the total would be $557,000. It's amazing that the difference in saving an additional ten years is about half a million dollars.

The monthly difference in payments of $4,000 vs. $1,857 a month shows how today's lifestyle decisions can be worth a million dollars in future years. If ten years could mean a difference of $2,143 a month in retirement income, can you imagine what 15 or 20 additional years of savings can do?

In addition, if the choice between cars can impact retirement income, imagine the possibilities when applied to other spending decisions such as a house, vacation, meals out, entertainment, clothing, and so on.

Try to develop the art of saving today. Contact Rutgers Cooperative Extension to become a Money 2000 household. This will encourage you to save. Your future is in your hands.

FFA Leaders with a Vision

Walter Honored

Kimberly Walter, a Mifflinburg Area High School senior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Walter, Millmont, is the first recipient of the Roberta Ann Walter Scholarship Award, a new scholarship for agriculture education students at the school.

The scholarship was established by Doug Walter, a former Mifflinburg FFA member and state FFA officer, in memory of his sister, who died in 1972 at the age of five.

"The scholarship is a way of giving back to the FFA. It helped me grow in many ways," said Walter, a 1978 Mifflinburg graduate.

Presenting the $250 award at the FFA's 67th annual parent-member banquet, Walter noted that his FFA advisers John Griffith and David Wooding had taught him to set goals in life and to dare to dream. By establishing the scholarship, he noted that he was living "one of the biggest dreams ever."

Walter recalled the courage of his sister, who attended kindergarten after surgery for a brain tumor, and noted that he admired her uncomplaining nature most of all. The image of her following her surgery stayed with him and prompted him to create the memorial to her, he said.

She was born Nov. 23, 1966, and died Feb. 4, 1972.

The annual scholarship is awarded to a senior planning to further his or her education in college, a vocational school, business school or other training that will enhance his or her career choice.

Applicants write an essay describing their personal and career goals and other information about themselves.

In selecting Kimberly Walter as the first recipient, Walter commended the "simple values" she projected in her essay.

Kimberly, who is no relation to Walter, plans to attend Mansfield University and major in history. At Mifflinburg, she is a member of the FFA, former president of the French Club, a former member of the Communications Club and softball team, and participates in Tri-Hi-Y.

Doug Walter, left, a 1978 Mifflinburg Area High School graduate, presents the first Roberta Ann Walter Scholarship Award to senior Kimberly Walter, a Mifflinburg FFA member. Mr. Walter, a former Mifflinburg FFA member and state FFA officer, established the scholarship to honor the memory of his sister, Roberta Ann, who died in 1972 at the age of five. Awarded annually to an agriculture education student who plans to continue his or her education, it was presented during the Mifflinburg FFA's annual parent-member banquet.

FFA Leadership for a growing planet

Twin Valley FFA Members Earn State Record Book Medals

Seventy-two Twin Valley FFA members were among more than 500 FFA members from across Pennsylvania who entered their record books in the Pennsylvania FFA State Record Book held at Penn State University.

All Twin Valley agricultural science students are required to keep a record book on a pet, other animal, job, research project, or wildlife project. By keeping track of income and expenses and maintaining a diary, students learn a valuable life skill. FFA members are then eligible to enter these record books in a state competition where a committee of agriculture teachers and student teachers score the books for completeness, neatness and accuracy. Medal awards are given to the top books in each category. Students also receive feedback on their individual books and record keeping skills.

Fifteen Twin Valley students received gold medals for their record books: Josh Lawrey and Adam Cordonnier for their wildlife records; Sara Marks and Kate Coffey for their pet rabbits; Timarie Legal, Tara Hackett, and Beth Laskowski for their pet cat records; Julie Peterson for records on her pet hamster; Jill DeGazelle and Louis Jones for records of their jobs; Bridget Samojeden and Taylor Slough for their pleasure horse records; Jennifer Miller for her garden records; and Katrina Getz and Nicole Phillips for their pet dog records.

Silver medals were won by Erin Dymond for pet rabbits; Megan Binasiewicz, Anna Rose Johnson, Amanda Amoros, Ashleigh Messner and Courtney Phillips for records on pet cats; Jason McAlpine, Rachael Powers, Lori Nosal and Dave Manness for miscellaneous pets; Crystal Care, Misty Baker and Holly Smoker for work records; Melissa Miller for pleasure horse records; Kelly Andrews, Valerie Lanser, Becky Taylor, Kelly Wallace, Kim Casey, April Hershey, Aimee Weaver and Krissy Beiler for pet dogs. Tony DeLaurentis for aquarium records. Vanessa Reinert, Erin Scott and Tim Hopfer for records on Guinea Pigs. Sandy Mast and Cherie Beam for enterpreneurship projects and Kate Collmann for her sheep breeding project.

Bronze medals were awarded to Cherie Beam for her aquarium records; Rachael Chambers, Leah Mast, Andrew McMullen, Jeff Blake, Mark Wright and Crystal Care for records on their pet dogs. Megan Charron for records on her pleasure horse. Bronze medals for work records went to Adam Miller, Stacie Mathias, Megan Charron, Kim Berkey, Mark Wright, Adam Cordonnier, Sandy Mast and Jamie Powell. Other bronze medal winners were Erica Ullman; Malissa McCue, Monica Hornberger, Toby Ranck, Carrie Hayes and Lindsay Seyfert for pet cat records; Kary Updegraff for pet rabbit records; and Allison Coffey and Rebecca Gardener for wildlife records.

Award medals will be presented to these FFA members at the annual FFA awards program on May 15.

Dairylea Gets Electric Deregulation

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairylea Cooperative won approval for its proposal for an electric deregulation pilot program in New York, aimed at reducing electricity rates for farmers and food processors.

The statewide program was chose by the New York State Public Service Commission (PSC) from 11 similar pilot proposals under consideration by the PSC, thereby allowing the agriculture and food industries to be the first utility customers to realize the economic advantages afforded by a deregulated environment.

"We applaud this action by the Public Service Commission, as the Dairylea Cooperative pilot project provides a great opportunity for New York's farmers and manufacturers to lower their production costs through negotiating their electric purchases — much as they do for other farm and manufacturing inputs," said Dairylea Cooperative President Clyde Rutherford.

"With New York state electric rates ranking among the highest in the country, this is an area where New York dairy farmers and food processing busiensses are at a disadvantage when compared to the rest of the nation," Rutherford said. "We are very grateful for the support that our state legislators have given to this project."

The Dairylead Cooperative pilot, developed through a venture with Wheeled Electric Power Company (WEPCO), is a multi-utility, open access program that will enable participants to choose their electric supplier.

The program is to include the service territories of Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, Rochester Gas and Electric, New York State Electric and Gas, and Central Hudson Gas and Electric.

"Agriculture and food processing are among New York's most important industries," said Tomo McGrath, vice president of marketing for WEPCO. "High energy costs have been suffocating farming and food processing. For them this is a breath of fresh air."

The average New York dairy farm, consisting of 60 cows, has electric costs of 50 cents per hundredweight of milk produced. It is anticipated that, under the new program, dairy farmers will realize a savings of 10 to 20 percent, which translates to 5 cents to 10 cents per hundredweight.

"In general, Dairylea Cooperative focuses its most creative energies on developing programs that can have a real economic impact on our members' farms," said Rutherford. "With the implementation of this pilot program, we will be able to directly enhance the net returns of our farmers' operations."

Additionally, the new pilot system is to provide first-hand experience and data for the PSC, utilities, independent suppliers, and consumers as the industry moves toward retail competition by early 1998.

"New York's electric market is moving along a path of customer choice and lower rates. Because of Dairylea's innovative idea and aggressive approach, the state's agricultural industry gets to be the first player under this new environment," Rutherford said.

GEHL Box Spreaders

Even when it's empty... it's loaded.

Low profile design means easy loading by skid loader, front end loader or barn cleaner

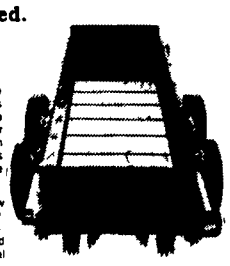
Gehl-Tuff Flooring prevents the apron from freezing to the floor allowing manure to slide out with little resistance. Less apron pull means less wear and tear on drives and apron chains. One piece construction won't flex under heavy loads

Extra-strong, T-bar apron chains with an average tensile strength of over 23,500 pounds keep the biggest loads moving

Double Galvanized steel sides are corrosion resistant for long life. One-piece seamless construction won't catch material or leak

Optional hydraulic endgate rests in front of the beater paddles to secure sloppy loads and keep heaped material out of the beater unit you're ready to spread. An available litter pan reduces spills in the yard or roadway while enhancing the spread distribution

Oscillating tandem wheels allow faster ground speeds while providing greater flotation. They're standard on the 325 bushel and 425 bushel models and optional on the 250-bushel model



Twelve extra wide one-piece beater paddles are symmetrically positioned for broad uniform spreads. Paddles are fabricated from tough 1/4" thick high strength steel. Bolt on replacement tips are available to extend paddle life

Constant velocity pto for continuous smooth chatter free power transfer when spreading on turns and reduced stress on the entire drive line

Huge 425 Bushel Ready To Put To Work Hydraulic Drive

In fact, you'd probably have a hard time convincing Gehl Mix-All® owners to even look at anything else. And why should they?
The Mix-All's big 21-inch wide hammermill features 66 reversible thin hammers that cut, rather than pound the feed to deliver a more consistent grind and ensure uniform mixing for a better feed conversion rate.
Gehl's self-contained hydraulic system is designed-in, not added on. It provides the precision of infinitely variable in-feed attachment control to match tractor power for greater grinding capacity. Plus you get fast, smooth, trouble-free unloading with greater reliability.
And a wide variety of options and attachments lets you customize you Mix-All to fit any operation.

THE BEST JUST GOT BETTER!

Better Performance. Gehl Scavenger®, the original V-tank spreader, has built a well-deserved reputation for delivering unmatched performance in a wide variety of materials. The new Scavenger takes that performance to the next level with even better spreading patterns in the toughest heavily-bedded manures.

Increased Durability. Not only has the new Scavenger been designed to out-perform all other V tank spreaders, but the main drive system components have been beefed up for extra durability and increased dependability.

Why is Scavenger the Best? One big reason is the unique new round-core auger. This auger features segmented paddles grouped in a spiral pattern. This flighting configuration delivers more material to the discharge expeller in less time for faster unloading. The paddles are precisely positioned to deliver more uniform feeding to the discharge expeller. This exceptional design breaks up and blends all types of manure. The auger is hydraulically powered both up and down (unlike competitive units that use springs, gravity or fixed augers). This design provides more control to chop through bridged material or pwer down through heavy loads.

Outstanding Application Control. Gehl's proven Varilo discharge system has been made even better. It's 33 percent wider on the Model 1315. On all new models the expeller assembly has been significantly strengthened. New square-tooth expeller paddles spread smoothly and evenly. You choose the rate you want, from heavy spring-time spreading to light top-dressing. With Scavenger you have complete control right at your fingertips.

Scavenger is Simply Better. The Gehl Scavenger is a simple spreader. It's solid and durable with sealed, welded tank construction and a full length channel steel sub-frame. Every Scavenger is built to deliver top performance year after year.

Your Gehl Dealer can show you why the new Scavenger V tank spreader is still the best.

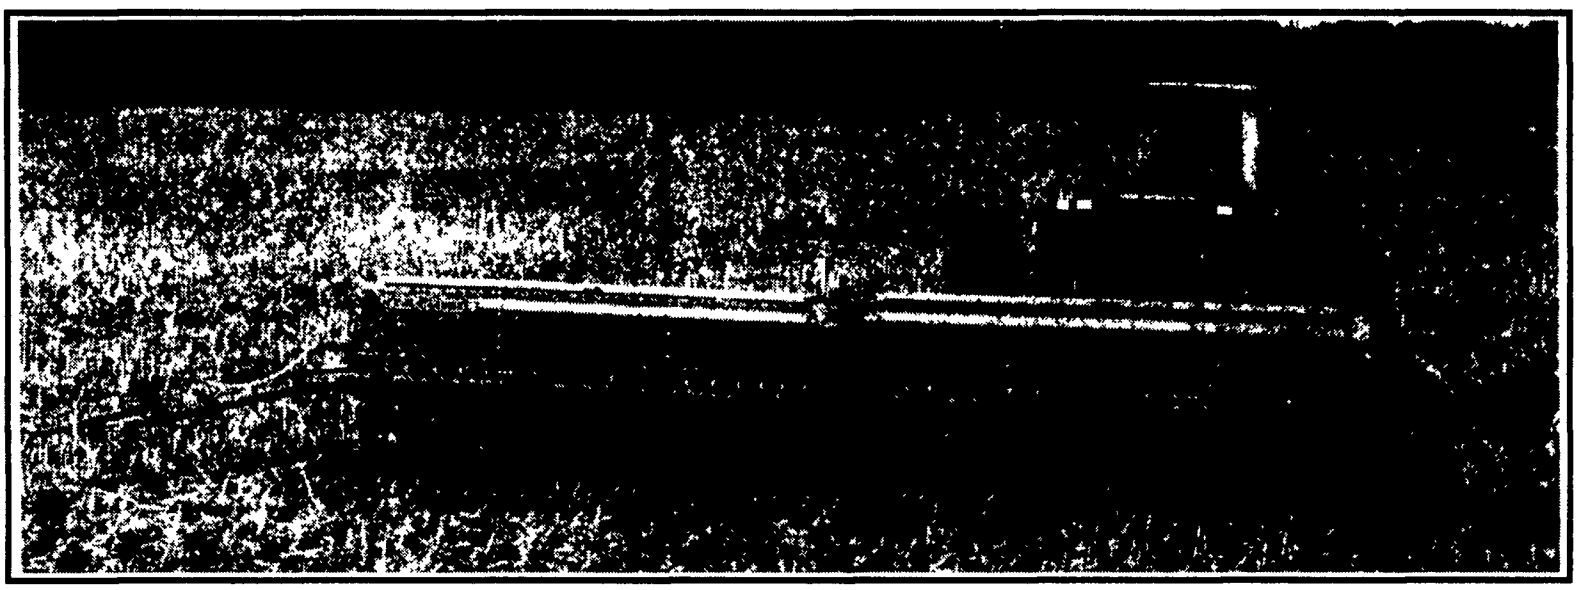
SPECIALISTS IN THE SCIENCE OF SEED PLACEMENT



The successful germination of any seed depends on the enviroment in which you place it... and increasingly, that environment includes a world of residue. Great Plains Drills have been shaped by years of experience. We've been building min-till drills since 1981 and no-till drills since 1982. Regardless of which tillage practice or condition you face, accurate seed placement is important. Every Great Plains Drill seeds with a time-proven technique we call the Science of Seeding.

GREAT PLAINS DRILLS SEED IN NO-TIL AND CONVENTIONAL TILLAGE CONDITIONS...
THE LITTLE THINGS MAKE THE DIFFERENCE

1 DOUBLE DISC OPENERS with PARALLEL LINKAGE available on most models

2 SPEED-CHANGE GEARBOX makes seeding rate changes easier

3 DIAL-A-DEPTH system makes changing planting depth quick & easy

4 FLUTED SEED CUPS - a Great Plains exclusive - deliver outstanding accuracy. Whether the seed you're drilling is small, large or fragile, the Great Plains time-proven metering system will deliver the rate you choose evenly and gently - without scuffing.

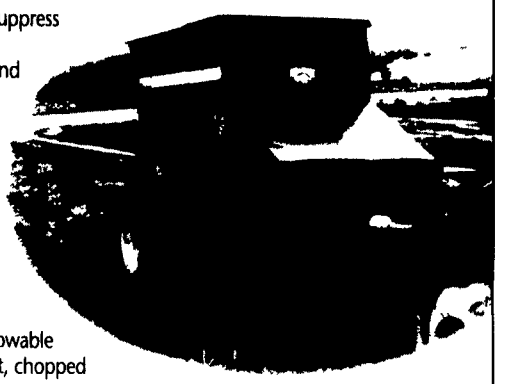
Finally, a practical way to apply organic mulch to row crops

Organic mulch is the natural way to suppress weeds, help retain soil moisture, and improve soil conditions. Trouble is, hand mulching takes too much time and effort. Now the Millcreek Row Mulcher makes it easy to mulch berries, grapes, fruit trees, and other row crops. One operator can mulch an acre in just a couple hours depending on conditions



The unique Millcreek Row Mulcher eliminates all the hand labor for mulching

Spread A Variety of Materials, Including Lime

You can spread all types of stemless flowable mulches, such as wood chips, sawdust, chopped bark, even compost, with plenty of clearance to avoid plant damage. Plus, the Millcreek Row Mulcher is ideal for banding lime and other materials requiring lighter applications. The optional metering gate gives you complete control of the coverage so you can tailor applications to best suit your cultivation practices.

For Small Growers
This may be the affordable machine you've been looking for to mulch berries, grapes, and other row crops. Think of the labor you'll save.

For Commercial Growers
Choose from 3 1, 4 5, and 6.8 cubic yard capacities Or call to discuss your special requirements

Gentle GIANT.

When it comes to performance, the MF® 8570 Rotary combine is an absolute giant.

Its patented rotor system lets you harvest circles around other combines of comparable capacity. Yet it produces outstanding sample quality with extraordinarily little grain damage. One reason is its simplicity of design, with far fewer augers, conveyors, and other moving parts than other combines.

Stop in today and find out more about the amazing MF 8570 combine.

Vitamix Makes Antibiotics Obsolete!
You Can Sell The Milk
When You Use Vitamix Instead Of Antibiotics

A dairyman's helper gave a cow an antibiotic and forgot to make a written record of it. He then went on vacation and for the next five days, the milk from 900 cows went down the drain!! The $42,000.00 lost would have bought enough Vitamix to last for years and years for that dairyman's whole herd.

You can sell the milk when feeding Vitamix. Vitamix is a mixture of vitamins, minerals, enzymes, electrolytes, and proteins, especially calculated to feed the immune system. Vitamix is the result of over 20 years research and over 20,000 feeding experiments. Vitamixingredients are so micro pulverized and easily digestible that some of them melt in the mouth and are absorbed into the bloodstream while the cow is still chewing her feed. Her organs increase the output of antibodies (white cells) within minutes, and can often double the output of antibodies within one hour after consuming Vitamix, and you can get Vitamix without a prescription. Vitamix is all natural. You just put Vitamix in the feed whenever there are symptoms of a contagious disease or infection.

The cow's immune system can cure any and every kind of contagious disease and infection quicker, safer, more consistently than any medical drug in the world when you support the immune system. The immune system is the only real defense. I keep cows and horses for feeding experiments.The last time I used an antibiotic was in 1984 and haven't lost a cow, calf or horse since I quit using antibiotics.

Any time any human or animal gets a contagious disease or any kind of infection, it is for one reason, and one reason only; The immune system failed to do an adequate job of defending against it. In other words, the immune system let you down.

Every time you use antibiotics, sulfa drug or an immune stimulator; you weaken the immune system. See the Physicians Desk Reference (PDR) for more information on the side effects of antibiotics. The information in the PDR was provided by the drug companies that make the drugs as required by law.

Shouldn't we be feeding the immune system instead? Support the immune system. Their lives and health depend on it. Feed Vitamix every time for every contagious disease or infection.

Vitamix is the best procedure in the world for Mastitis. It is quick and easy and you can sell the milk when feeding Vitamix.

How long does it take when you take the "Support the immune system approach?" I have seen calves that were down, had high fever, bloody scours and were dehydrated. One needed help to hold its head up. The only thing I gave them was Vitamix and water. In three hours, I had to run them down and get them cornered to give the Vitamix. Dairymen tell me that Vitamix is faster than anything else they ever used.

When there is a serious case of anything contagious or infectious; I give Vitamix once an hour for three hours, or until they are back on their feed and doing noticeably better. I continue Vitamix six times daily for a few days. Vitamix typically costs only $2 to $3 a day for a cow (less for a calf). The total cost for one cow for one illness is typically $8 to $10 from start to finish.

Vitamix costs less than antibiotics, and you can get it without a prescription. Vitamix is completely drug free!!! You can sell the milk when you use Vitamix !!! (When you use antibiotics, you pour the milk out for 5 days, sometimes more. You risk making a mistake and pouring all your milk out for 5 days or more.)

You save money Every Time you use Vitamix. Get some Vitamix now to keep on hand. Use Vitamix as soon as you see symptoms of anything contagious or infectious. You will know you did the right thing within hours.

Preventing and curing all contagious disease and infections boils down to this. Increasing the capacity to produce white cells (Antibodies). All white cells are made by the bone marrow. Antibiotics cause "bone marrow depression" thereby reducing its ability to make white cells to fight diseases and infection (See Physician's Desk Reference Book [PDR]).

I have done over 20,000 feeding experiments on healing the body, and have yet to find an incurable contagious disease or infection.

. Why sit around waiting for a miracle? You can order Vitamix right now. Miracles are great and they do happen now and then; if you wait around one might happen for you. But the immune system is a miracle. You can order Vitamix today and keep it on hand, then you will have it when you need it.
Vitamix ...when you need a miracle. The best source of information about Vitamix is people who have used it. Ask a friend about Vitamix.

NIPPLE DRINKERS FOR TURKEYS?

R. Michael Hulet
Associate Professor
Dept. Of
Poultry Science

In the past 15 years, the broiler industry has changed the water delivery system for commercial broilers from an open water system to nipple drinkers.

The major reasons that the change to nipple water systems occurred were that birds grown using nipple water systems were healthier (fewer condemnations, fewer downgrades from wet litter), better air quality, better control of litter moisture, and equivalent growth.

Other positive factors such as lower transmissions of respiratory, E. coli and enteric diseases were noticed. The nipple system was also easier to maintain (no washing of bell or trough fountains) and vaccinations and medications could be provided more efficiently to the birds.

Also, cleaning, flushing and sanitizing of lines can be accomplished more effectively in the plastic versus the metal pipes used in the older open water systems. It was still thought that, under ideal circumstances, better weight gains could be had with the open water systems, especially during summer heat; however, this has been offset by the many advantages found with the nipple system. It should also be noted that nipple systems have continued to improve and now provide adequate water for broilers during all seasons.

Can the nipple watering system be used for commercial turkeys? When considering all the positive reasons nipples worked for broilers, the various commercial equipment companies are working to develop closed watering systems that are compatible with efficient turkey production. The major problem reported in the literature from use of nipples with turkeys is lack of body weight. However, many modifications in the broiler nipple systems have been made to increase the flow of water for use with turkeys.

A pilot study conducted at Penn State University compared the performance of male and female turkeys raised to 16 weeks of age on three improved nipple systems and the standard open bell drinker.

Nipple systems, made by Chore-Time®, Plasson®, and Ziggity®, were compared with the traditional bell-open watering system. In the study, the turkeys were brooded four weeks in one pen and then moved into different pens at a lower bird density to simulate the conditions of brooding and finishing commonly used in the turkey industry. Feed consumption, water consumption, feed conversion, and body weight were recorded at regular times during the growing cycle.

Significant differences were found for water consumption starting at five weeks of age and for body weight at four weeks of age between one of the three nipple systems and the bell watering system. Differences in body weight were found at 11 and 16 weeks of age between birds raised on the bell watering system and all three of the nipple watering systems. The 16-week average body weights for the controls or bell system were 31 pounds for males and 23 pounds for females. Females on one nipple drinker had body weights that were not significantly different from the bell system at sixteen weeks of age. The birds on the best performing nipple system had body weights that were 0.5 kg less (1.1 pounds) for males and 0.4 kg less (.8 pound) for female turkeys at sixteen weeks when compared with the respective males and females on the bell water fountains. The differences in body weight were found to be directly related to water consumption differences between the water fountain systems. That is, the systems, that had the greatest water consumption, had the greatest body weights.

In conclusion, growth performance using turkey nipple drinkers with higher water flows were shown to be effective in this study and in field trials to seven weeks of age. However, performance from finishing turkeys on nipple drinkers (16 weeks) have not been satisfactory when compared with birds on bell drinkers. Progress is being made. Modifications in the nipples and management of the nipple drinkers are being studied at Penn State in the research facilities, with preliminary results showing promise for use in finishing market turkeys.

Producers Enroll 336 Acres

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — At the end of the four-week sign-up period for the new Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), Richard Troutman, Berks County FSA Committee Chairman, is "delighted" that local producers have offered to enroll 336.7 acres into the program.

"The CRP sign-up went very well," said Troutman. "I am delighted at the response we've been getting from farmers and other landowners in the area."

The new Conservation Reserve Program is the single largest government environmental improvement effort. It offers incentives to farmers to plant various kinds of protective cover on suitable farm property to protect and improve air, water, soil quality, and habitat for wildlife. These figures show that Berks farmers want to be active participants in the fight to clean up our environment.

All land that is enrolled in the program must compete for acceptance based on an environmental benefits index that ensures fair and equal consideration for all types of land. Sign-up for the program ended March 28. Producers will be notified by mid-June as to which acres have been accepted into the CRP.

1997 Dairy Of Distinction Applications Sought

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Do you take pride in maintaining your dairy farm? Does your dairy farm project an attractive, wholesome image to consumers? If so, the Dairy of Distinction Program of New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania will consider your farm for the program's annual recognition awards.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program was first started in 1983 to recognize the hard work and dedication of the farmers who maintained attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense ot confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by. The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas, and manure management are other aspects of the farm operation taken into consideration. Roadside judging is conducted during the month of May. Former winners of past years are also rejudged to ensure they continue to meet standards of excellence.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk. Applications are available for Pennsylvania from: Stephanie Meyers, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., 219 South West St., Suite 100, Syracuse, NY 13202-1205, Phone: (315) 472-9143; for New York: Carol Weddle, 5249 Route 281, Homer, NY 13077, Phone: (607) 749-2504; or New Jersey: August Knispel, 641 Sidney Road, Pittstown, NJ 08867, Phone: (908) 735-4989. All applications must be completed and returned by Tuesday, April 15, 1997.

Berks County FFA Contest

Amanda Amoros, 17-year-old daughter of Libby Amoros of RD 1, Mohnton, and an eleventh-grade agricultural science student at Twin Valley High School, won the Berks County FFA Interview Contest held recently at Oley Valley High School.

Interview contestants must write a letter applying for a job, complete a job application, and then are actually interviewed for an agricultural job of their choice by a judge. Sara Marks, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marks of Elverson, placed second in this contest. Jaimey DeHaven of Twin Valley placed 6th. Jason McAlpine and Anna Rose Johnson of Twin Valley also participated.

Katrina Getz, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Getz of Morgantown and a freshman environmental agricultural science student at Twin Valley, captured first place in the FFA Creed speaking contest. Creed speakers must recite the FFA creed and then answer questions on the creed posed by judges. Other Twin Valley creed speakers were Krissy Beiler and Erin Dymond. Top county creed speakers will complete in a tri-country contest in April.

Following are the results of the contest:

FFA Members Recite Creed In One Week

All 24 first-year FFA members of Mrs. Knight's agribusiness and animal science class recited the FFA Creed in one week, which helped to earn them all their Greenhand Degree, presented to them at the official Greenhand Degree Ceremony held during this year's National FFA Week.

Adviser Mrs. Knight said, "This is a very special group of young people who share a deep love for animals and have bonded together as a family to expand their common interest in developing their skills in the veterinary health field.

These students are part of the 66-member Harford Tech High FFA Chapter Bel Air, Md. who wish to challenge other agriculture classes to break their record. Please contact the chapter at (410)638-3804.

Twin Valley FFA Members Attend Made For Excellence Conference

Thirty members of the Twin Valley FFA chapter attended the Made for Excellence Conference sponsored by the Pennsylvania FFA and conducted by a team from the national FFA organization. Approximately 200 FFA members from chapters across Pennsylvania attended this conference.

Twin Valley FFA members in attendance were Amanda Amoros, Jessica Barwell, Krissy Beiler, Crystal Care, Rachael Chambers, Allison Coffey, Kate Collmann, Tony DeLaurentis, Erin Dymond, Megan Ferguson, Rebecca Gardner, Joel Graydus, April Hershey, Louis Jones, Ryan Kehl, Valeri Lanser, Josh Lawrey, Timarie Legel, Leah Mast, Sandy Mast, Todd Mast, Stacie Mathias, Jason McAlpine. Julie Peterson, Courtney Phillips, Jamie Powell, Ryan Smathers, Jim Verbella and Kelly Wallace. Twin Valley students were chaperoned by Advisor Ronald Frederick, Mrs. Frederick and student teacher Krista Byers.

Made for Excellence is a personal development conference where students learn about goal setting, motivation, and self-improvement. The students also had the opportunity to meet FFA members from other parts of Pennsylvania. "MFE was interesting and fun. I got to meet a lot of different people who live in different environments, which was really neat," said one Twin Valley FFA member. Another member said, "MFE was a great time where I was able to learn a lot about myself and about other people!"

All of the Twin Valley FFA members enjoyed the leaderhsip conference and many are excited about returing next year.

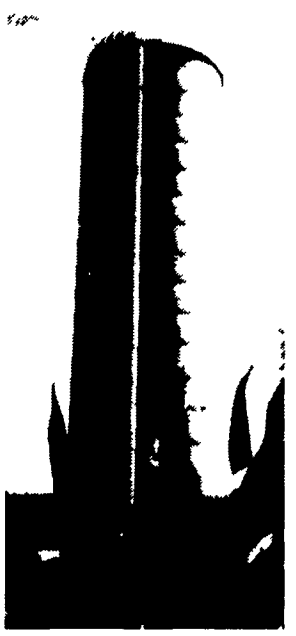
THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!



"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21st CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

Equipment Can Transport Up To 12 Bales

NARVON (Lancaster Co.) — Pequea Machine, Inc. has added the new 646G to its popular line of round bale transports.

The 646G, with gooseneck hitch, combines the features of all the Pequea bale transports with heavy duty structural tubular steel with a 4 inch x 10 inch x ¼ inch wall center beam. Bale arms are of the oversize, heavy wall tubing and the 9 gauge fenders allow bales to be carried over the wheels.

Center marking antennas aid in the proper placement of bales. The 646G can transport up to 12 bales that are 4-6 feet in diameter at a time.

Keeping a low profile, the 646G has a loading height of 23 inches and the 8 foot gooseneck attaches easily to any standard gooseneck hitch. Tractor trailer style double landing gear with a single crank allows efficient loading and unloading with increased stability. The Model 646G is finished with Pequea's new state of the art electro-static paint process that can be counted on to hold up for years.

The 646G can transport up to 12 bales that are 4-6 feet in diameter at a time.

For more information on the Model 646G Round Bale Transport or other quality equipment for the farm, call Pequea Machine, Inc. at (717) 768-3197.

Engine Technology Has Potential To Reduce Emissions

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Husqvarna has introduced two stroke engine technology that features a lower-temperature catalytic converter and has the potential to reduce combined hydrocarbon and nitrogen oxide (HC+NOX) emissions by at least 60 percent over existing 1995 California Air Resources Board (CARB) regulations for Class IV two-cycle engines (20 cc- 50 cc).

According to the company's senior engineers, early tests indicate that the technology has the potential to reach reductions of at least 60 percent in combined HC + NOX emissions when compared to the 1995 CARB standards. Further, preliminary laboratory test results on prototype E-tech™ engines, such as those demonstrated at the 1996 International Lawn, Garden and Power Equipment Expo, show an expected initial reduction in combined HC + NOX emissions of at least 40 percent over CARB 95.

This technology will be available on products from Hussqvarna Forest & Garden Company in 1997.

Initial tests also show reductions of up to 50 percent in particulatee matter emissions when compared to Husqvarna's current 225 series engines.

With this E-tech™, Husqvarna expects its 225 series product to continue to deliver up to 40 percent more power and 30 percent more fuel efficiency than Husqvarna product equipped with its 122 series engines. In addition, the E-tech™ engine significantly reduces the amount of smoke and smell produced, when compared with the 225 series.

E-tech, named to convey Husqvarna's commitment to ergonomics, economics, excellence and engine evolution, was unveiled at Expo '96 on several products, including two of Husqvarna's best-selling trimmers. The new technology will be standard on those units, which will be available to dealers in 1997.

Husqvarna engineers in Sweden developed this new engine technology. Several patents are pending on the developments, so few details will be released now. Bo Andreasson, vice president of engineering for Husqvarna AB in Sweden, is quick to point out, however, that the technology goes beyond the simple addition of a catalytic converter.

"This is a new concept for two-cycle engines that represents many years of engine design," Anddreasson said. "And while the catalytic converter is important, it plays only one part. With this new concept, significant reductions in emissions occur before the catalytic converter gets involved."

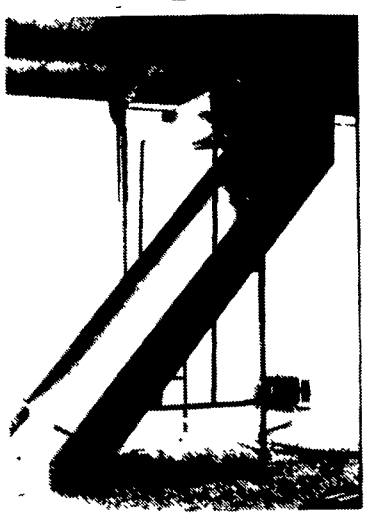
Husqvarna's E-tech engine redesign has taken place over several years and includes the development of a number of engine features designed specifically to improve fuel delivery, air/fuel mixing, and combustion chamber. Add to these improvements the new catalytic converters, which effectively convert many remaining emissions into water vapor and less toxic gases, and Husqvarna's new E-tech™ engines are expected to reduce combined HC + NOX emissions by at least 40 percent when compared to the 1995 CARB standards.

Husqvarna product managers uxpect users to find the new E-tech products more effective than four-stroke models. Some four-stroke engines in hand-held products have come under serious criticism for their weight and for their performance in inverted positions common to lawn and landscape maintenance. Other benefitsss of this two-cycle engine-powered equipment include higher power-to-weight ratios, effectiveness at a range of RPM levels, light weight and fewer moving parts, which mean less maintenance and repair.

The Husqvarna 225L trimmer next year will include the E-tech™ engine, a redesigned two-stroke engine that features a lower-temperature catalytic converter and has the potential to reach reductions of at least 60 percent in combined HC + NOX emissions when compared to 1995 CAR standards for Class IV two-cycle engines (20cc - 50cc).

With thiss E-tech™ engine, Husqvarna expects its 225L trimmer to continue to deliver up to 40 percent more power and 30 percent more fuel efficiency than its 122 series of trimmer models. In addition, the E-tech™ engine significantly reduces the amount of smoke and smell produced.

Screen Tackles Waste Separation Problems



The unique Flip Screen provides an external drying shelf where separated solids are momentarily detained prior to discharge.

PARIS, Texas — Waste processing specialists at Agpro® Inc. introduce the newest design feature to combat soggy solids and liquid runoff streams, problems that are all-too-common in conventional waste separation systems. The all-new Flip Screen featured on Agpro® Mark II Manure Solids Separators offers a solution.

The unique Flip Screen provides an external drying shelf where separated solids are momentarily detained prior to discharge. This increases the initial dryness of reclaimed solids and, in most cases, eliminates or substantially reduces liquid runoff from stacking pads.

"We like to keep things simple," said Agpro® Waste Specialists Neal Dismukes. "Our static screen separators have no moving parts, which make them relatively maintenance free."

The Flip Screen feature enhances all versions of the Mark II Series Separators, which can be fitted to meet customer requirements for capturing solids as small as .010 of an inch. Capacities as high as 600 gallons per minute can be achieved, and units are available in stainless steel or hot-dip galvanized construction.

Equestrian Product Business Opens

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — J. Mitton & Associates Inc. has opened a new equestrian/pet outlet store called Equestrian International Products here on West Main Street.

The owners design and manufacture most of what they sell and pass the savings on to customers. The new outlet store is the creation of Larry Mitton, a six-year resident of New Holland with 28 years of experience in manufacturing, distributing, and retail sales of horse, pet, and farm supplies.

Most recently with New Holland Supply Company, which moved out in July 1996, Mitton joined forces with Joe Gitterman, an ex-Wall Street investor and founder of Equestrian International Products, a Connecticut-based company dedicated to bringing new and safety oriented products to the horse industry.

This team now warehouses, distributes, and does mail order from the West Main Street location. The retail division will be open weekdays from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The store's grand opening begins April 21 and ends April 28.

Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA Sponsors FFA Record Keeping Contest

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA presented awards to the winners of the FFA Record Keeping Contest for Mifflinburg Area High School on Thursday, March 13.

Clifford E. Valentine, specialized lending manager of the Lewisburg branch of Northeastern Farm Credit, presented the awards for the evening.

Jeremy Dorman, a senior, received the regional award and a check. He has won the county award twice in the past, making him a rare three time FFA Keeping winner. He was one of four national finalists in fruit and vegetable production, the only representative from Pennsylvania. Record keeping was a part of this contest. Ag teacher/FFA Adviser Glenn Spangler describes Dorman as a 'meticulous record keeper.' Dorman is the son of Richard and Ester Dorman of Mifflinburg.

Daren Roush, a junior, received the county award and a check. Roush is a first time winner in the FFA Record Keeping Contest and the son of Randal and Betty Roush of Mifflinburg.

Agricultural students are required to maintain record books on a project of their choice. This project could be a crop or animal, a job, a home improvement project, a research project, a wildlife conservation project or a skills development project. All types of record books require students to have a signed agreement, keep a record of income and expenses and diary of labor performed. At the end of the year, the students summarize and analyze their records.

Record books are entered in the state contest after they have been scored in a county or chapter contest. Only the top books reach the state competition. At the state contest, books are scored for their completeness and accuracy as well as neatness. After all books are scored, the top record book in each county is selected. Eight regional winners are selected from among the county winners and one state winner is selected from the regional winners.

PURINA DAIRY HERD PROFILE

Tom Roth at home in the well-managed farm office.

"I can recommend Purina to other dairymen"

Nestled in the rolling meadows and woodlands near Landenberg in Chester County, Wilkinson Farms is well known for a beautiful farm setting and a large well-managed farming operation. They farm 5,000 acres and raise alfalfa haylage, corn silage, high moisture corn, and baled alfalfa to feed their 350 milk cows. Cottonseed and soybean meal are added to a custom-formulated Purina concentrate to balance the ration in a TMR mix. They formulate the feed for four milking cow and several dry cow groups. The herd averages 75 pounds per cow per day, and the early fresh group of 85 cows in milk 68 days averages 102 pounds per day.

"We use Purina because of their willingness to provide technical assistance with herd and feed formulas and to allow a herd of this size to remain on commodities and home-grown feeds," said Tom Roth, herd manager. "Most feed mills want to sell a lot of product. But Purina has allowed us to have a broader resource of different feeds and still be able to buy concentrates at trailer load prices. They balance what feeds we have with their concentrate mix, so we save a lot of money on feed costs.

"Based on our experience with Purina and the success we have had with them on milk production and feed costs, I can recommend Purina to other dairymen," Roth said. "We have set up a consultant team among Purina representatives, our veterinarian, and our breeding cooperative. They all communicate and work together to keep our herd productive and healthy. Purina has fit well into our system of management and we are very comfortable working with them. I don't feel their main goal is to get as much feed as possible in here under their label. We have our own feeds and Purina is in here to smooth out the ration and help us make milk."

In addition to the work with rations, Purina research farms also provide veterinarian services such as blood analysis and monitoring for disease.
